RECIPROCITY IS REAL ISSUE

MACDONALD CAMPAIGN IS ON IN EARNEST

Speeches by R. L. Richardson and Hon. F. Oliver—Hon.
R. Rogers Active

Winnipeg, Sept. 27.—R. L. Richardson opened his campaign in Macdonald last evening with a successful gathering at St. Francis Xavier, which was presided over by Samuel Smith. In addition to the candidate, the principal speaker was Hon. Frank Oliver, who said that the Laurier government had staked its all on the reciprocity issue, and had no intention of deserting what they still believed to be for the best interests of the country.

Mr. Richardson, who was well received, said that while he had in the past taken issue with the Liberal party on other questions, he was now back in the old fold when he found that the party had adopted a policy of which he had at all times been a strong supporter. He would fight for the cause of reciprocity to the end, and that was the only real issue in the election.

A Conservative meeting was held at St. Eustace at which the speakers were Arthur Meighen, M. P., Aime Benard, M. P. P., and the candidate, Mr. Morrison. All devoted their attention to the reciprocity question, and repeated the old arguments in connection with Britain and the relationship of Canada with the States.

Hon. Robert Rogers has arrived in Winnipeg, and says: "Yes, I am here to assist in the contest, and I am going to remain until the last vote is polled. We are prepared to meet all comers, believing as we do that a strong verdict is due to the Borden government for what it has been able and prepared to do for the province of Manitoba during the first year of its reign."

TURKS KILL WOMEN AND CHILDREN

MASSACRE BY TROOPS ON ISLAND OF SAMOS

Greece Will Protest Against Firing by Soldiers on Greek Steamer

London, Sept. 27.—A dispatch to the Times from Constantinople says the Turkish troops in the island of Samos got out of hand yesterday and killed many women and children.

It was announced last night that, acting on the advice of the French ambassador, supported by the other ambassadors, the Porte has postponed the manoeuvres in Adrianople in favor of divisional centres of Macedonia and in four Adrianople and Constantinople districts.

Much apprehension, the dispatch adds, is still felt on account of the agitation of the Bulgarian war party.

Will Demand Apology.

Athens, Greece, Sept. 27.—A vigorous protest against the firing by Turkish troops on the Greek steamer Roumelia at Samos a few days ago is to be made by the Greek minister at Constantinople. The Greek government has ordered the minister to demand the severe punishment of the offenders, as well as an expression of regret by the Turkish government. The payment of damages for injury done to the steamer and compensation for the loss of some principal baggage of the Greek passengers also are to be claimed.

Frontier Fight.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Sept. 27.—The frontier fights between Turkish and Bulgarian soldiers have been called to the attention of the Turkish government by Bulgaria.

The Bulgarian government declared that the Turkish troops had frequently fired on Bulgarian outposts and had killed one man at Hamambunar, where shooting had occurred from several points on the Turkish side.

Will Introduce Reforms.

Constantinople, Sept. 27.—The Balkan agitation has its centre in Sofia, in the opinion of the Turkish foreign minister. In the course of an interview to-day he said: "I have no reason to doubt the peaceful intention of the Bulgarian cabinet, and while Bulgaria remains peaceful, the other Balkan states will doubtless do likewise. Should the agitation in Bulgaria overcome the government's restraint Turkey will be able to protect her integrity and independence."

The minister then gave further assurance of the Porte's determination to introduce reforms in all parts of the empire and said foreign advisors would be engaged for the re-organization of the central and provincial administration.

ULSTERMEN READY TO SIGN COVENANT

RELIGIOUS SERVICES TO BE HELD IN BELFAST

Unionist Policy in Regard to Home Rule Bill Will Be Announced To-night

Belfast, Sept. 27.—The official programme of the Unionist party in regard to the Home Rule Bill is to be announced to-night at a great meeting of Orangemen on the eve of Ulster Day. To-morrow the meeting of Ulstermen will be followed by signing a solemn league and covenant not to submit to the requirements of a scheme of self-government of Ireland. The meeting is to be held in Ulster hall, the scene of many historical and momentous protests against Home Rule, and indications are that the gathering will be unparalleled in point of attendance, overflow meetings having been arranged in adjoining thoroughfares.

Lord Londonderry will preside at the meeting inside the hall, and the speakers will include Sir Edward Carson, F. E. Smith, M. P., Lord Salisbury, Lord Willoughby de Broke and Lord Charles Beresford.

Arrangements have been made for a solemn open air service in front of the city hall on Sunday evening, to accommodate those who were unable to gain admission. The committee of ministers has settled upon the order of prayers and hymns, and all services will conclude with the National Anthem.

The last demonstration before the big Belfast muster was held at Newtownards last night. Even more enthusiasm than usual was shown, and anti-home rule resolutions were adopted amid cheers. Lord Londonderry presided, and there were several overflow meetings.

The authorities say they do not expect any disorders in connection with the demonstration on Ulster Day, but they have taken precaution of ordering the troops in the city to be confined to barracks in readiness should their services be required.

Sir Edward Carson, during his trip to and from Ulster hall to-morrow will be escorted by a bodyguard of 100 selected men from the various clubs. The city is being gaily decorated and from thousands of houses in the residential districts Union Jacks are flying.

An appeal is being made to the Ulster men to make a unique display of the national flag to-morrow, and it is expected that this will give occasion for an unprecedented show of bunting.

London Comments.

London, Sept. 27.—The Liberal and Radical papers are making a deal of fun of Sir Edward Carson, who is accused of surrounding himself in the recent Ulster demonstration by ceremonial usually reserved for the King. They ridicule the Ulster agitation generally as a sort of circus show. They admit, however, that the Ulster people themselves are in deadly earnest.

U. S. IMMIGRATION.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—The 1,127,989 aliens—immigrants as well as aliens temporarily here—arriving in this country during the last fourteen months, brought $46,712,697. The immigrants carried $23,122,550. They had an average of $38 per capita during the fiscal year and $40 during the two months following.

These figures are given in a comparative report made to the commissioner-general of the immigration bureau. The report says the tide of immigration is stronger than a year ago—58 per cent. greater for July and August, although the first five months of the fiscal year ran heavily behind the previous year's figures.

Of the fiscal year arrivals 1.66 per cent. were debarré from this country. The immigrants from Canada carried the greatest amount per capita and those crossing the Mexican border had the least money.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

Premier of Australia Says Scope of Act Will Be Extended.

Melbourne, Sept. 27.—Hon. Andrew Fisher, prime minister of Australia, has expressed his intention to amend the Old Age Pension Act, in order to allow people owning homes to participate in the act. Hitherto the benefits of the Old Age Pension Act have been confined to those who are practically destitute and have not been in receipt of incomes from other sources which would equal $2.50 per week.

SUFFRAGETTES WEAR ARMOR.

London, Sept. 27.—The suffragettes' latest dodge is the wearing of protective armor. It is learned that several of the women who disturbed Chancellor Lloyd George's Welsh meeting Saturday were quilted and padded garments with sharp pins, points outward, firmly fixed in the padding.

SENTENCED TO DEATH.

Montreal, Sept. 27.—Carl Battista was sentenced to be hanged yesterday afternoon by Judge Tremblay for the murder of Salvatore Macaruso. He will be executed on Dec. 20. There are now five men in the cells in this city awaiting execution for murder.

VICTORIA'S ROYAL VISITORS

H. R. H. Arthur Duke of Connaught

H. R. H. The Duchess of Connaught

H. R. H. PRINCESS PATRICIA OF CONNAUGHT.

THEIR ROYAL HIGHNESSES ARRIVE THIS AFTERNOON

City Will Joyously Welcome the Son of the Great Queen—Preparations for Reception and Programme

At five o'clock to-day Victoria will welcome its royal visitors, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and their daughter, Princess Patricia and party. As one of the sons of the great Queen whose name this city bears the welcome will be the warmest that can be extended.

It will be a transformed Victoria that will greet the royal visitors this afternoon. Public spirit and private enterprise have joined wholeheartedly in decorating the streets through which the Governor-General, his consort and his daughter will pass until the streets appear as long vistas of color and brightness. With the weather fine and beautifully warm as it is, there is every reason to expect that the citizens will turn out en masse to give the distinguished visitors the warm human welcome that their place in the hearts of the Canadian people has assured for them wherever in the broad Dominion they may go.

The finishing touches have now been put on all the decorations, and the many-colored way from the wharf right to Government House is already being lined with gathering crowds, waiting for the time when the boom of the guns at Work Point shall apprise the city of the approach of the Princess Alice with the royal party on board.

All the details of the reception have been perfected and briefly the progress will be as follows:

As previously stated, a royal salute of twenty-one guns will be fired at the fort, and the steamer will arrive at the wharf precisely at five o'clock. It is understood that only His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and the Premier will board the steamer, while the members of the official party of welcome will be present on the wharf. The formal introductions will be very brief, and immediately afterwards the royal party will walk to the platform which has been erected on the parliament grounds to receive the city's address of welcome to be presented by Mayor Beckwith. H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught will reply and the journey to Government House will be commenced, their royal highnesses and suite riding in two double carriages drawn by picked horses. It is expected that the progress from the wharf to the Government House will occupy about two hours.

At the presentation of the address, admission to the enclosure will be by ticket. The Women's Canadian Club have arranged to present a beautiful basket of roses to H. R. H. the Duchess on her arrival.

City by Night.

The city by night will be, if anything, more striking than by day. A foretaste of the illuminations was given last evening when great crowds collected on the Causeway to view the magnificent blaze of light in the great square. The parliament buildings, the Empress Hotel, the Union Club and the Post Office building all blazed with light; the first named, with light shining out its perfect lines of cupola and tower was something to be remembered by those who saw it thus for the first time. Other of the large blocks in the city have been decorated in the same way, while the arches are all honeycombed with lamps which will shed their rays through the evergreens and creepers which drape column and span.

The evening will be spent quietly at the Government House by the viceregal party, and it is expected that there will be a distinguished party at dinner to meet them.

Guard of Honor.

All the military arrangements for this afternoon's reception were completed yesterday with the issuance of orders by the district officers commanding. The naval men will also take a prominent part. Twenty gunners, under Capt. W. B. Almon, will man the saluting battery of twelve-pounder breech loaders. The naval guard of honor of one hundred men from the ships at Esquimalt will be drawn up facing the wharf on Belleville street. They will be in the charge of Lieut. Newcombe, first lieutenant of H. M. S. Shearwater. Gunner Hands, of H. M. C. S. Rainbow, will be in command of the blue-jackets, who, with the Fifth Regiment, Cadets and Boy Scouts, will line the streets from the wharf to Rockland avenue. The naval guard will be inspected by the Duke immediately on his arrival, after which he will proceed to Government House, where the Fifth Regiment C. G. A., will be drawn up. The royal escort will be drawn up across the roadway at the east side of Menzies street.

The permanent force troops, under command of Lieut. Mulcahy, will be drawn up in front of the Parliament buildings.

Programme for To-morrow.

11 a. m.—The Duke of Connaught will lay the corner stone of the Provincial library, an addition to the Parliament buildings.

11:30 a. m.—His Royal Highness will lay the foundation stone of the new Seamen's Institute at the corner of Superior and Kingston streets.

2:30 p. m.—Their Royal Highnesses and Princess Patricia will drive in state to the exhibition grounds.

4 p. m.—Demonstration by the British Columbia units of the St. John's Ambulance Association at Government House.

His Last Visit Here.

The last occasion upon which Victorians enjoyed the honor of the presence among them of their royal highnesses, the Duke and Duchess, was during the early summer of 1899, they being then on route home from India, where they had been for several years in residence. Return to London via the Canadian route was decided upon largely in consequence of His Royal Highness' desire to become more intimately and personally acquainted with the outstanding characteristics of the Dominion and of the value of the then newly forged link in the Imperial band of steel—the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Their Royal Highnesses crossed the Pacific by the R. M. S. Abyssinia, Captain Lee—one of the forerunners of the Empresses under the C. P. R. flag and arrived off the outer wharves on the 1st May, being given a first welcome by a small official party which went out to the liner by tender and included Herbert Stanton (now of the provincial mines department), private secretary of the then lieutenant-governor, the late Hon. Hugh Nelson; Col. E. G. Prior, Robert Ward (at that time president of the British Columbia Board of Trade), and the late A. R. Milne, of H. M. S. customs service. The ducal party included Major-General Sir John McNeill, Col. and Mrs. Cayave and Dr. Kilkelly.

HUNDREDS OF PERSONS PERISH

WIDESPREAD HAVOC

Tens of Thousands Homeless in Japan—Number of Vessels Founder

Tokio, Sept. 27.—Hundreds of lives were lost, scores of persons were injured and damage exceeding $20,000,000 was caused as a result of the typhoon which swept Japan from end to end on Sunday, according to the latest reports received here. Tens of thousands of people are homeless. The storm was the worst that has occurred here for over half a century.

Reports were delayed by the fact that the capital was for days cut off from the rest of the country. The greatest damage was done in the north cities of Nagoya, Nara, and Osaka—the islands of Honshu and Shikoku.

At Gifu 282 people were killed and 233 injured.

At Nagoya every house was damaged and a great tidal wave demolished the harbor and sank three steamers, while others went ashore.

The Kioto Maru foundered off Itoya and all the passengers and crew were lost.

At Osaka 20,000 houses were ruined and all the breakwaters and the harbor piers were washed away.

At Nara the thousand-year-old Kasuga Shrine collapsed into a heap of ruins.

Crops suffered severely everywhere.

VICTIMS OF AUTO ACCIDENT.

Charles Voisin, an Aviator, Killed.—
Baroness de La Roche Sustains Injuries.

Lyons, France, Sept. 27.—Baroness de La Roche, a noted aviatrix, was seriously injured in an automobile collision near Belleville-sur-Saone, last evening. Charles Voisin, an aviator, was killed at the same time.

Baroness de La Roche was the first woman to make an aeroplane flight in Paris. She won her air pilot license in February, 1910. At an aviation meeting at Rheims the following July the baroness, driving a Voisin biplane, lost her nerve at a height of 150 feet, shut off the power and fell with her machine to the ground. Both legs and arms were broken, but she recovered sufficiently to continue her hazardous pastime.

Baroness de La Roche has driven motorboats in races and automobiles at exhibitions and as soon as flying became practicable, she learned how to manage a biplane.

LONDON SECURITY MARKET.

Present Situation Regarded as Far From Satisfactory.

London, Sept. 27.—In view of the fact that several Canadian municipal and other borrowings are imminent on the London money market, careful inquiries have been made of those interested in such transactions. The present position is regarded as still the reverse of satisfactory. On the surface the situation would seem better as the result of the holiday rest, but regarded closely conditions appear unimproved, if not worse. The market is becoming saturated with treasury bills which must presently be funded, and the bank rate will probably go higher. Uncertainty regarding the United States presidential elections also is a profound influence making for financial depression.

MANUFACTURERS

HOLD BANQUET

Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier Among Guests of Honor

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—As a fitting climax to an eminently successful convention the Canadian Manufacturers' Association held a banquet last night at the Chateau Laurier at which 500 were present, among the honored guests being: Premier the Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. J. D. Hazen, Hon. J. D. Reid, Hon. J. C. Doherty, Hon. A. E. Kerhp and John Kirby Jr., president of the American Association of Manufacturers.

The new president, R. S. Gourlay, occupied the chair, and acted as toast-maker for the one toast, which was to the King. None of the speeches were lengthy. The premier paid some sincere compliments to the American people and the American nation, and in a splendid oration urged all Canadians not to forget the importance of promoting the ideals of nationhood and character.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier made some humorous references to the tariff question and spoke in an appreciative way of the growth of the Canadian industries. Hon. Mr. Hazen advised the manufacturers to establish a Canadian Lloyd's and said that the government would do all that it possibly could to get better marine insurance rates for vessels on the St. Lawrence.

After dealing with facts and figures showing the growth of Canada in the last few years, Mr. White appealed to the Canadian manufacturers to recognize the importance of higher education.

The toast of "The King" was responded to in the usual way by the singing of the National Anthem.

President's Speech.

In welcoming Premier Borden, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the cabinet ministers and other prominent guests, President Gourlay said that as an association the members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association cared not which party was in power so long as the national ideals were upheld and propagated. Speaking of the association Mr. Gourlay said it had now reached the age of maturity. He urged the encouragement and support of home industries and commented at some length on the pros and cons of home industry.

"God forbid that any shoddy products should ever be made in Canada," he said. "It is the duty of every Canadian to give the right-of-way to Canadian products. I told this to the British manufacturers when they visited us, and I tell it to you."

Other advantages offered to prospective manufacturers from other countries

A Record Unblemished

It is estimated that 65% of the value of estates left to private executors is lost either through dishonesty or through lack of financial knowledge.

Trust Company literature frequently asserts that not one dollar of estates in the hands of trust companies has ever been lost. The assertion has never been contradicted.

If this company has not already been named in your will as executor, the omission should be remedied without delay.

were explained to the Britishers by Mr. Gourlay. "They asked us if we would favor an increase in British preference. We told them we would not and that the best course for them was to cast in their lot with us, to establish branch factories in Canada."

Mr. Gourlay advocated entering the markets of the world, paying attention to the worth of manufactured concerns.

Premier Borden.

Premier Borden first extended congratulations to the new president of the association. He paid humorous reference to the fact that in England banquets usually ended by 11 o'clock. One function he attended was concluded at 10.30.

In referring to the fiscal policy of Canada he said:

"I do not think there is any great difference of opinion on the fiscal system. It has not changed much in principle for the last 33 years. The original idea was to have the resources of Canada developed in our own factories and ships."

Proceeding, he commented on transportation. He said there is no object more important than to develop industrial activity in the west as it has been in the east. It would be idle to assume we have not the difficulties to meet to attain this object. There have been difficulties in the past and there will be difficulties in the future.

Mr. Borden paid a compliment to France in speaking of transportation. "That land," he said, "was the birthplace of many of the pioneers of Canada. He testified that the highways or roads of France are a credit to any country, and claimed that Canada would do well to follow the example of France in this matter."

The premier paid sincere compliments to John Kirby and other American guests present. "We owe a great deal to the United States," he said. "It is the duty of the empire to consider the United States as one of the greatest nations of to-day. Canada is a unit of the British empire, bound to that empire by ties of loyalty and unity, and bound to the United States by ties of social and commercial interest."

In referring to his trip to Great Britain, Mr. Borden said that all eyes there were on Canada. Canadians should take heart from this and have faith in their country.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier alluded to the great advance and progress in Canadian manufactures within the past few years. He had striven to give manufacturers justice. The tariff, he said, must always continue to be a more or less vexed issue, but whether we were protectionists or free traders, he thought all would agree that there should be stability and periodical revision without constant tinkering. In conclusion he wished good luck to the manufacturers and the manufacturers would say good luck to the consumers, and so Canada's motto would be "Canada first, Canada last and Canada for ever."

Hon. W. T. White.

Hon. W. T. White, minister of finance, said that when he heard Sir Wilfrid speak of the tariff and the desire for stability, he thought to himself, he is not far from the Kingdom. The speaker congratulated the association on its growth, and went on to tell of the great trade growth in Canada. He foresaw an output of two billions from Canadian factories.

Hon. J. D. Hazen.

Hon. J. D. Hazen, minister of marine and fisheries, drew attention to the great improvements in the St. Lawrence channel and urged the use of the Canadian waterways for shipping purposes instead of through American ports.

"So far," he said, "I have not found amongst the records that there has been anything done to establish Canadian Lloyd's. I would say that I think the practical course to take is to get together, to formulate some scheme to get government aid, and I am sure the government will not turn indifferent ears to such a request which would certainly build up trade in Canada and on the St. Lawrence."

John Kirby, president of the American National Association of Manufacturers, said his association had the highest regard for Canada and its citizens.

CHICAGO POLICE INVESTIGATION

Thorough Inquiry to Be Made as Result of Charges Against Officers

Chicago, Sept. 27.—Capt. J. J. Mahoney and Lieut. Burns, who are facing charges of neglect of duty and inefficiency as the result of the escape of two men suspected of being implicated in the robbery of the Bank of Montreal at New Westminster, B. C., appeared before the civil service commission for trial yesterday afternoon. Their cases were continued to next week by agreement of both sides. Neither Burns nor Mahoney had anything to say. They were represented by Attorney M. F. Sullivan. Attorney Miles J. Devine, witness for Sidias, was present and joined in the conference that preceded the setting of the case for trial.

Devine and Sidias are the men who gave the police the "tip," and although Devine is recorded as a witness for the prosecution, he will do all he can to exonerate the police officers, he says.

Mayor Harrison during the day heard two versions of the robbery escape and the police bungling. He allowed it. Assistant Schuetler and Attorney Devine were the mayor's informants. The executive made it plain there would be a thorough investigation and that he was not satisfied with the work of Mahoney and Burns.

The "Let George do it" attitude of Captain Mahoney, the mayor said, did not strike him as showing police interest or efficiency, and Burns' attempt to arrest two well-known bank robbers single-handed indicated to him an investigation was needed.

"From what I have heard it looks like a badly bungled piece of work," the mayor asserted. "I don't want to say much at this time for the matter is in the hands of the civil service commission, but there is going to be a complete investigation."

The mayor intimated the investigation likely would go further than the determining of the truth or falsity of the formal charges against the two accused officers. He expressed interest in the recovery of the $10,000 stolen Canadian currency, secured by Assistant Chief Schuetler after repeated sweating of Sidias, the saloonkeeper. The latter is declared to have had this money in his possession on the afternoon of the day he and his attorneys gave the police the "tip."

RAILWAY STRIKE SPREADING IN SPAIN

Military Officers and Engineers Endeavor to Maintain Service With France

Madrid, Sept. 27.—The railroad troubles have spread from Catalonia to other parts of Spain. At a meeting at Olmeira yesterday of men employed on the southern lines, a resolution was adopted to stop work immediately on the pretext that the company arbitrarily discharged a foreman.

Traffic in Catalonia is virtually at a standstill. Military officers and engineers are endeavoring to maintain the mail train service between France and Barcelona, but their success is very meagre.

The telegraph wires along the tracks were repaired yesterday by the troops, but were cut again by the strikers during the night. Otherwise no disturbance has been reported. In spite of the preaching of revolutionary doctrines by active anarchists, several of whom have been arrested.

INDUSTRIAL DISPUTES ACT.

Quebec Street Railway Raises Question as to Constitutionality

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—The constitutionality of the Industrial Disputes and Investigation Act of 1907 in its application to the settlement of strikes in street railways is again brought to the public attention by the attempt by the minister of labor to create a board in Quebec city to arbitrate on differences that exist there between the company and its employees.

While the point to be decided in the Quebec city affairs is of minor importance, the department here expects that the same action may be taken by the company as was done in the Montreal street railway differences in June, 1911, which led to the appointment of a board the following August. The Montreal street railway applied to the courts for an interlocutory order restraining the board from sitting on the grounds that the Industrial Disputes Act did not apply to street railway difficulties as the matters at issue were wholly provincial, and the federal law did not apply as no inter-provincial interests were affected thereby.

The constitutionality of the act was to be argued in Montreal last June, but was postponed until this month. The department of justice, represented by F. J. Dismal, K. C., Montreal, holds to the constitutionality of the act, and the decision of immense importance to every street railway company in Canada is awaited with interest by the labor department here.

The minister of labor has been in receipt, since the Montreal action was taken, of applications from Toronto and other places that similar boards be held up, but he did not act on that basis, and his appointing of the Quebec board may give rise to similar injunction proceedings in Quebec.

GOVERNOR WILSON ON TRUSTS.

Says They Have Been Manufactured by Men More Powerful Than Their Neighbors.

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 27.—"Big business on a great scale is inevitable and desirable, but it is a different matter from the development of trusts," said Governor Wilson in a speech to a big crowd here. "The trusts have not grown, but have been manufactured by the deliberate will of men more powerful than their neighbors in the business world."

"I deny Mr. Roosevelt's claim that the trusts are inevitable. I have been reading the messages which Mr. Roosevelt sent to congress in which he advocated the theory when legislation on this subject was being considered."

"In almost every instance, he said, and still says, trusts have come about through a natural development of business conditions, and that it is a mistake to try and oppose the process by which they have been built up, and that the only thing to do is to accept them as inevitable arrangements and make the best of it by regulation. I answer that this results from a confusion of thoughts."

REBEL GENERAL SURRENDERS.

Bluefields, Nicaragua, Sept. 27.—Official confirmation was received here yesterday of the surrender of General Mena.

This news is generally accepted as the termination of the revolution.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—General Mena, leader of the Nicaragua revolutionists, is to be sent to Panama under guard of American sailors and marines. American Minister Wetzel reported to the state department today that Rear-admiral Southerland had accepted the surrender of Mena and 700 followers at midnight on September 24. His capture is taken to indicate the collapse of the revolution. His removal to Panama probably means exile.

While cycling towards Newton Linford, Leicestershire, to place a wreath on her mother's grave, Miss Mary Pollard, of Ansey, ran into two men, and was thrown on her head, dying three hours later.

Bishop Says Great Cities and Big Harvests Are Often
Sources of Religious Danger.

Winnipeg, Sept. 27.—Preaching on behalf of the Anglican Association of Help, which has brought a number of prominent divines from Great Britain to inaugurate the movement in Western Canada, the Bishop of Edinburgh delivered an impressive sermon at Holy Trinity church, in the course of which he deplored the tendency of the flood of immigration to overwhelm the Anglo-Saxon stock. "Let us remember," he said, "that great cities and millions of bushels of wheat are often sources of religious danger."

He pointed to the United States, whose national character had been changed by the advancing tide of immigration. "If we look over the border," he said, "do we not hear regrets that the strong New England stock which produced Emerson and Longfellow, and the chivalrous Virginia race which produced a Washington and a General Lee, have almost disappeared, drowned before the tide of immigration from Europe?"

"This is a time when the church should be active and eager to do its share in building up the new country. Canada wants men, not buildings, men with high ideals and noble aspirations," was the passionate appeal of the bishop.

MEXICAN REBELS CAUGHT IN TRAP

Band of Revolutionists Practically
Wiped Out by Federal Troops

Mexico City, Sept. 27.—Trapped on the bank of a canyon near Orizaba, in the state of Vera Cruz, a band of rebels, commanded by Maximo Mello, was practically wiped out by a slightly superior force of government troops, according to official reports received here.

The bodies of thirty rebels were found after the fight and some twenty rebels were seen to topple into the canyon, says war department reports. Although the federal commander states that the fight continued two hours, he placed his own loss at only two wounded.

This band of rebels is said to have proclaimed Manuel Calero, Mexican ambassador to Washington, president. General Aguilar, who is operating in the same section, also has proclaimed Calero president. The ambassador disclaims any sympathy with the movements.

Maximo Bello has been raiding haciendas and towns in the vicinity of Orizaba for the past ten days, and on Wednesday of last week his band carried off a wealthy matron and a judge from La Posita, Vera Cruz, for whom they demanded ransoms.

Rebels Destroy Bridges.
Juarez, Mex., Sept. 27.—Railway and telegraph communication was cut early to-day with Pearson, the American lumber centre on the Mexican Northwestern railway, 150 miles southwest of here. The wires are only operating to Casas Grandes. Between that point and Pearson bridges have been burned by a detachment of the six hundred rebels who for many days have been threatening to attack Pearson, which is defended by about 450 federal troops.

Will Hold Rebels.
Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—The state department and the department of justice have decided to regard Mexican rebels who flee across the line to the United States and surrender, or are captured by American troops, as proper subjects for internment just as were the soldiers of France who made their way to Switzerland during the Franco-Prussian war. They will not be subjected to extradition unless for crime committed in Mexico without reference to military duty. The fugitives will be kept under surveillance.

DIES SUDDENLY.

North Vancouver, Sept. 27.—George Childs, first street, died suddenly Wednesday. Mr. Childs, while talking to his wife in their home about 8 o'clock complained of a pain in the chest, and thinking it was an attack of indigestion, asked for a cup of hot water, and after having taken a sip or two he suddenly expired.

Mr. Childs was first mate of number three ferry steamer. He leaves a wife and three children.

FUNERAL OF LATE

SIR R. CARTWRIGHT

Remains Interred at Cataract
Cemetery—Many Floral
Tributes

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 27.—Conveyed to Cataract cemetery, the remains of the late Sir Richard Cartwright were yesterday afternoon laid to rest in the family plot. The cortege was a large one. At 1.30 o'clock the remains were taken from the deceased's late home at The Maples, to St. George's Cathedral. The chief mourners were the four sons, Dr. R. C. Cartwright, of Nanaimo; A. D. Cartwright, of Ottawa; Captain Frank Cartwright, of Toronto; and Henry Cartwright, of Toronto. The pall-bearers were: Colonel F. Smith, sergeant-at-arms of the House of Commons; Colonel S. C. McGill, J. B. Walker, K. C., and Francis Dobb, John Dobb, of Kingston, and F. C. T. O'Hara, of Ottawa. Mr. O'Hara served many years as private secretary to the departed statesman. The Dominion government was represented by Senator Loughheed. Included in the floral tributes were wreaths from the Dominion government, the Senate, the Montreal Liberal Club and the Kingston Reform Association. As the funeral party reached the cathedral and walked up the aisle, Chopin's funeral march was played. The remains were met by the Dean of Ontario, Rev. E. L. Bidwell, and Rev. G. G. Doob, of Brockville, a cousin of deceased, who jointly conducted a full choral service. The hymns, "Now the Laborer's Task Is O'er" and "Lead, Kindly Light," were sung, and the Dead March in "Baul" was rendered on the organ while the body was being received in the cathedral. Rev. Mr. Doob conducted the committal services. Among the prominent men present were Senators Loughheed and Jaffray and the Hon. Charles Murphy.

BOY SCOUTS.

Manitoba Commissioner Says Movement in Canada Has No Connection With Militia Department.

Winnipeg, Sept. 27.—Rev. A. T. Macintosh, senior district commissioner of the Scout movement in Manitoba, in discussing the statement of General Ian Hamilton made in London said: "The Boy Scout movement in Canada has no connection with the militia or war department, either in intent or actuality. Some time ago the war department of Great Britain offered to officer or equip the Boy Scouts, the Church Cadets and the Boys Brigades if they would become affiliated with the department. The Church Cadets accepted but the Boys Brigade and the Boy Scouts' headquarters refused." In conclusion Mr. Macintosh said that Canada depended on every true Scout not for soldiering, but for something nobler and higher, citizenship, pure and noble.

STRIKING MINERS

ATTACK TRAIN

Mine Owners May Appeal to Kentucky's Governor
for Troops

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 27.—One hundred striking miners, armed with magazine rifles, held up and attacked a train at the Roanoke iron mines in Bath county on Wednesday, according to advices received yesterday. The strikers lined up on both sides of the track and challenged the guards on the train, ten in number, to a battle. The engineer was ordered to run the train through the lines of armed men. As he did so, the strikers fired on the guards' car, but as it was protected by iron plates no one was hit. After the train had run out of the immediate range the ten guards fired several shots in the direction taken by the strikers. So far as is known none of the strikers were hurt. As a result of this hold-up it is likely that troops will be requested by the mine owners. A recent request was refused by Governor McCreary.

THE ROYAL VISIT.

The visit of Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and the Princess Patricia is an event of no minor importance, for though His Majesty King George was here when Prince, and it is the Duke's second visit, it is the first time that royalty has come among us in the person of a Governor-General of Canada. In addition to this happy combination the people of Victoria welcome in the Duke of Connaught a man of parts. The royal family of Great Britain traces its lineage back through a thousand years and embodies for us much that is glorious in the traditions of the nation. Their splendor is not alone the splendor of the family to which they belong, and a contemporary fittingly comments that "they are a sign that the British people have made good."

When we do them honor we honor the greatest force that has made for law and order the world has ever known. The visit of these royal scions indicates, too, the movement toward each other of royalty and democracy. This is not because of any self-abnegation on the part of royalty; it is rather democracy justifying itself. Half a century ago it would have been impossible to expect Canada to become so important to the Empire, or in its own right as a self-governing Dominion, to warrant the designation of a royal scion as its viceregal head. Yet H.R.H. is not slow to say everywhere that he considers the present term in his extensive experience, as the responsible representative of His Majesty, one of the most pleasant and interesting in his whole official career away from the British Isles.

To Their Royal Highnesses, then, Victoria acclaims a welcome. The Duke is more than a figure-head. He is a man, an officer and a royal emissary who has won the esteem, confidence and admiration of all with whom he has come into contact in his wide range of experience as representative of His British Majesty. And His Royal Consort and Princess Patricia are no less beloved.

In his tour across Canada the Governor-General has said something worth while at every place where the citizens of Canada have been given an opportunity to testify their undying loyalty to the throne whose representative the Governor-General is. The appropriateness of his every public utterance has awakened the keenest interest in what he will say now that he has reached this western outpost on the Canadian Pacific shore.

WARSHIPS FOR CANADA.

There seems little doubt that Hon. R. L. Borden's naval policy when it is announced will involve the construction of such vessels as shall constitute the Canadian navy in Great Britain. According to Sir Rodmond Roblin, Mr. Borden has pledged himself to provide funds for the construction of "one or two" Dreadnoughts to be placed wholly at the disposal of the British admiralty. Whatever may be the merit or demerit of such a proposal it leaves unsettled the permanent naval policy of the Dominion. The Montreal Star, evidently satisfied with this "emergency" expedient, has taken up the next feature of Mr. Borden's probable programme and advocates the building of Canada's defence fleet in Great Britain. It argues that this will be a great saving of money for Canada, and has even reduced the calculation to the proportion of five dollars worth of naval defence resources for three dollars of outlay. In arriving at this deduction the Star, unfortunately we think, refers to the recent tenders called for by the United States war office. The English bid for 14-inch armor-piercing shells was $355, while that of the United States firms was $500. The Star claims that even at this advance the American manufacturers would be losing money, and it argues that Canada, without present plants for the production of war materials or ships, could not hope to construct defence materials of any kind lower than the United States. It goes on to show that $5,000,000 expended by Canada for ships or materials in the United Kingdom would secure five million dollars worth of return, but the same sum expended in Canada would produce only $3,000,000 worth of ships, guns or ammunition. It does not believe that the hard-headed and practical people of Canada will be prepared to expend so much money in excess of results produced for the sake of having a home-built navy.

The argument is in the Star's best and most specious vein, but it does not relate what actually happened in the case of the United States tenders. Tenders having been called for large supplies of shells for the navy, the different firms tendering all put their prices within a few dollars of each other and bid in reverse order on two halves of the contract. That their prices should be so uniform and so exorbitant when compared with the prices of British firms was a good indication that there was collusion. That the prices should be arranged almost in reverse order in the two halves of the contract was confirmatory evidence. When the agents of all the companies tendering met in New York and sent an ultimatum to the government intimating that they would go out of the business of manufacturing naval supplies if their tenders were not accepted, they demonstrated clearly that the manufacturers of armaments in the United States have the government at their mercy and are not afraid to declare openly that they intend to force it to do their bidding and pay their exorbitant prices.

The protectionist organs in Canada—at least the Montreal Star—are ready to inflict the same kind and degree of "boss rule" on Canada, but in setting out to accomplish this they resort to specious and fallacious arguments calculated to deceive by an appeal to cupidity, arguments in direct contradiction of the very theory upon which they advocate protection in other branches of industry. This is the manner in which the proposition is put before the readers of the Montreal Star:

"If we vote five million dollars and insist upon spending it in Canada, we will really only be voting three millions worth of naval defence. But if we vote five millions and spend it under Admiralty direction in British shipyards, we will be voting a full five millions worth of naval defence. In other words, we can almost double the value of our contribution to the defence of the Empire against an impending and soul-shaking menace by pursuing the common-sense course of utilizing the experience, the skill, and cheapness, which comes from much work of the same character, offered us by the naval shops and yards of the greatest maritime nation in history—a nation which we are fortunate enough to have as a member of our own Empire. We are not like the less fortunate Americans—in a foreign country when we stand in a British shipyard. It may be necessary for them to pay an extra price to get war material made under their own flag. It is not for us. We are still British."

It is true that we can save money by having our ships built in England. It is equally true that we can save money by having our manufacturing and other machinery built in the United Kingdom. There is no more reason why Canadian consumers should submit to be taxed from 40 per cent. to 60 per cent. more for the manufactured articles in common use than that they should be taxed that much more for the construction of his own warships at home. The insistent claim of the protectionist organs is that the customs duty which keeps out foreign or British-made machinery enables the Canadian manufacturer to build up industries, employ working men, pay them wages and ensure the universal prosperity of the Dominion.

The same rule must apply in ship building. If it is good in one case it must be good in another. If Mr. Borden takes his ship building contracts to Great Britain—always supposing that he will have some to let—the people of Canada should arise as one man and declare for the free entry of British manufactures of all kinds into Canada so that the consuming population of the Dominion "may utilize the experience, the skill and the cheapness which comes from much work of the same character done in the Mother Country. It is no longer necessary for us to "pay an extra price to have things made under our own flag," for we are not "still British?"

GRAIN GROWERS' CHALLENGE.
No action taken by a corporate body during many years has as much significance as the action of the Grain Growers' Association in throwing down the gauntlet to the Manufacturers' Association by demanding that the latter join forces and influence in demanding that the British preference be increased, so that British manufacturers may enter Canada upon payment of half the duty imposed on United States or other "foreign" articles. The Grain Growers' Association has been one of the most maligned and slandered class interests in Canada. They have been repeatedly read out of the loyal citizenship of the Dominion because of their insistent demand for larger markets and reduced duties on the articles in use in their industries. Every odious stigma has been attached to them and their good name has been defamed throughout the empire. They now have their revenge.

The demand which they make is not only reasonable from a political viewpoint but eminently practical as an earnest of the good intentions of the "Imperialists" in their clamor for an Imperial preferential tariff. The manufacturers have invited the United Kingdom to become a protectionist country. They ask that a duty be imposed on food stuffs going into Great Britain in order to give Canada a preference in the market of the Mother Country. This must involve increased preference to British manufacturers coming into Canada, and the Grain Growers, who are the greatest sufferers both coming and going, ask them to lead the way. Their answer is the shallowest subterfuge and shows the hollowness and mockery of their pretentious parade of loyalty to the idea of trade within the empire. Not only did the association treat with indignity the proposal of the Grain Growers but at the banquet of the manufacturers last night the president said of the British manufacturers:

"They asked us if we would favor an increase in British preference. We told them we would not and that the best course for them was to cast in their lot with us, by establishing branch factories in Canada."

There is left no room for doubt in the minds of Canadian people that the industrial interests intend to keep Canada a monopolistic preserve for their own control, nor that they intend their monopoly to be as much protected against the Mother Country as against any foreigner. The "flag" is a trifling emblem now that the "Interests" are asked to make good.

The morning paper, which violates every canon of good taste and newspaper ethics by the publication of the address to be presented to H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught this afternoon, must feel deeply mortified that it is unable to publish in advance the reply to His Royal Highness. We do not think the members of the royal party will be any more delighted with Victoria or have their impressions of the degree of civilization and culture prevalent among its citizenship flattered by this unusual procedure on the part of the government organ.

COST OF LIVING.

Toronto Globe.

While Sir Mackenzie Bowell is groping about in the dark trying to catch the cause of high prices how would it do for the rest of us to demand the repeal of all duties on meats? Is it Britain's policy of free imports that gives her cheap food? Every producer of food animals in the world knows that the British market is open duty free night and day for all the foodstuffs that all the world cares to send. The Belleville mystery is no mystery at all. Taxed food is bound to be dearer than tax-free food. And as Sir Mackenzie is for taxed food every time, he ought to have grace enough to pay for his beefsteak without making such a row about it.

CONCILIATOR IN DISPUTES.

Sir George Askwith Due in Victoria on Mission of Inquiry.

The great strike-breaker, Sir George Askwith, is expected in Victoria shortly. He is in Canada investigating labor conditions in general, and the working of the Lemieux Act in particular. Accompanied by Lady Askwith and by J. A. Michael, Sir George will in all probability spend a few days here and will confer with both employers in the city and with labor leaders.

The British government has lately given much thought to the various strikes and labor disturbances which have seethed beneath the crust of the social system in the Old Country. It will be remembered that Sir George was called upon to aid in the settlement of the coal strike and the London docks strike, and has been the successful arbitrator in many trade disputes.

As chairman of the Industrial Committee he enjoys the confidence of thousands of British workmen and employees, and is universally respected as a just and fearless arbiter by all denominations in trades unionism. His career in this respect has been a particularly remarkable one. He was made Comptroller-General of the Commercial, Labor and Statistical department in 1909, and was also chosen counsel on the Venezuelan arbitration. He has filled many other offices as well, from assistant secretary to the Board of Trade to British plenipotentiary at Berlin.

PASSING OF VICTORIA CITIZEN.

Henry Crane Dies in California—Formerly in Realty Business Here.

Many residents of Victoria will regret to hear of the death of Henry Crane at Monrovia, California, on Tuesday. Mr. Crane was well known in Victoria during his association with the realty business, from which he retired to take a position in the attorney-general's department. His death took place at the early age of 39, and the remains will be brought to Victoria for interment at Ross Bay cemetery.

For several years Mr. Crane was associated with the firm of J. E. Crane & Son, and resided on the Cadboro Bay road. After being in business with his brother for some time he went into the coal trade in New Westminster. Some dozen years ago he entered the government service under Joseph Martin, M. P., then attorney-general of the province, and was for seven years chief assistant in that office. At the end of that time he was supernumerated on account of ill-health and went to Kamloops to recuperate.

There was a great improvement apparent in his health, and it was thought he was on the high road to recovery, but he returned to work too soon and completely broke down. He was advised to go south where death has overtaken him at Monrovia.

He was very popular in all branches of the service and stood high in the opinion of successive departmental chiefs. His premature end will be greatly regretted.

At $2.90 There are some lovely Allover Net. One style has a deep square yoke that is outlined with a piping of daintily colored silk and a row of lace insertion. The yoke and neck are made of tucked net while the front is handsomely embroidered, trimmed with buttons and tucked. The sleeves are full length and have the oversleeve effect and are finished with handsome cuffs. The back of the garment is neatly tucked and you have your choice from garments in white and ecru. Various other new styles are to be had.

At $4.75 Here is a line of beautiful allover lace good silk. One style is both odd and attractive, having a large lapel effect from the right shoulder and extending across the front in a diagonal manner. This lapel is backed with silk of a contrasting color and with cuffs to match make a very attractive and effective garment. Pippings of silk are the only other trimmings and the three-quarter length sleeves are set in with pipings.

At $6.75 There are some delightful styles to do justice to these garments here, and an utter impossibility to flatter their exquisite beauty. They show a standard of skill and good taste that would be hard to surpass in a garment at this price. They are made over a foundation of high grade silk, have three-quarter length sleeves with the over-sleeve effect and finished with handsome cuffs made of five frills of lace. The trimmings are handsome bands of silk in delicate colors that give to the garment a one-sided effect and a round yoke. You must see them to appreciate the value of these attractive lines.

POLO TO-MORROW.

An Attraction at the Exhibition—Kelowna vs. Kamloops.

The final game between Kamloops and Kelowna polo teams will be played to-morrow afternoon at the fair grounds. The Kelowna team, although handicapped by not having their regular captain, nevertheless expect to regain their former position as champions of British Columbia—a championship which was so magnificently wrested from them lately by the Kamloops team.

There is no doubt that a great deal of credit is due these two teams for coming down so far to play two exhibition games for Victoria. All the men are hard-working and industrious, and a credit to any locality, and represent various vocations, some being engineers by profession, others being engaged in ranching and fruit-growing. Polo as played in Western Canada is on an entirely different plane to that in the East or in the Old Country, where it is a rich man's game exclusively. A great number of ponies are kept for utilitarian purposes, some for pack-horses in the mountains, others for light work on the ranches.

Polo as a game has very attractive features, and as a training in astuteness, quick judgment, steady nerves, and for the muscles has few equals. The game to-morrow will consist of six periods of eight minutes each, and for the enlightenment of those unacquainted with the game, the team consists of 1, 2, 3, 4 and each member has to act as a check to the opposing member as well as to hit the ball. The referee, Dr. S. C. Richards, of Victoria, will see that no fouls are made, and proper penalties will be inflicted where necessary.

Young Fellow Would Probably Have Won Game Had He Not Been Displaced in Sixth—

Yesterday's baseball game completely disgusted the fans. Meek's poor judgment probably losing the game for the Bees. Young Steele, who pitched for the locals, made his debut in professional baseball, and his work on the mound was most satisfactory. Steele started somewhat nervously, and the first man up, Mahoney, walked, and Steele, trying to catch him off first, threw wild, and the runner Pippins got off the former Beacon Hill star. He had them eating out of his hand, and the score stood two to one when McCreery went in.

Meek showed very poor judgment in the fifth inning when he took Bobby out and substituted McCreery. When the bases were full and two men out, Meek was afraid that Steele could not handle Burch, who was sent in to bat for Agnew, but this is where he made a mistake as Burch off Mr. Creery, singled to centre and cleared the bases. Before the inning was over the visitors had five runs.

In the fifth innings Steele pitched he struck out five, walked five, and allowed but one safe hit, and what more he got a hit himself.

When McCreery entered the game the fans hollered for the Pippins to knock him out of the box, and Portland did hit him all over the lot.

Meek led the Victoria team with the stick, having three hits, while Williams was the hero for Portland, getting three also, he being the only one who made a clear hit off Steele. In the first inning with two on and one out Steele struck out McDowell and Harris, and the fans went crazy.

In the second inning Victoria found Agnew for three hits and two runs, Meek singled, Weed singled, Clem bunted, and everybody was safe on Agnew's error, Keller grounded to Speas, who tried to get Meek at the plate, but Harris missed the ball, and Harry was safe. Steele fouled to Williams, and Daniels walked, forcing in Weed. Rawlings grounded, and went out at first.

In the sixth inning for Portland McDowell walked, Williams singled to centre, Harris struck out; Coltrin went out on a fly to Daniels and Cruickshanks walked. Then Meek yanked out.

Steele and McCreery went in. With the bases full Burch singled to the fence and cleared the bases. Mahoney then singled, scoring Burch. Speas hit to Weed, who threw low to Brooks and Mahoney scored. Pries ended the inning by a fly to Clem.

The visitors added two more in the seventh when Keller dropped Williams' pop fly and Steiger, who was substituted for Agnew, knocked the ball over the fence. A hit by Williams, who stole second, and scored on Cruickshanks' single gave the Pippins one more in the ninth. Victoria rallied wonderfully in the ninth, scoring four runs, but were unable to overcome the Pippins' lead. In this inning Clementson singled, Keller whiffed, Harmon doubled, scoring Clem. Kennedy batting for McCreery, singled, scoring Harmon. Daniels fled out. Rawlings singled, and Brooks singled, scoring Kennedy. Meek singled, scoring Rawlings and Weed fled out, ending the game.

Umpire Van Hultren was off color, and several of his decisions were a little out. Pat Eastley, Portland's star twirler, was on the coaching line he could not make it out, that Steele had his team mates whiffing in the air.

TACOMA SHUT OUT.

Seattle, Sept. 26.—Meikle was invincible to-day and Seattle won from Tacoma, 4 to 0. Both teams played fast ball in the field and six double plays were scored. Hunt pitched a good game for Tacoma, but timely hitting and a bad throw to the plate by Holderman combined to give the

ANOTHER BANK ROBBER IN TOILS

TAKEN BY DETECTIVES IN STREET IN ST. LOUIS

Police Expect to Recover More of Loot Secured at New Westminster

Chicago, Sept. 27.—Acting Chief of Police Herman Schuetter went to sleep last night smiling. It was the first smile perhaps since the Chicago police department was arraigned by Chief McWeeney for the biggest blunder in police history. Schuetter smiled because he had just received a long-distance telephone message from St. Louis, to the effect that one of the safe-crackers who robbed the branch of the Bank of Montreal at New Westminster, B. C., of $271,000 had been captured by his men.

"We have got him," was the message, "and we expect to locate the stuff." Schuetter notified Joseph Schumaker, superintendent of the Pinkerton agency, whose men have been working hand-in-hand with the Chicago police. Schumaker motored to the acting chief's office. They were long in conference.

"The capture," said a person on the inside, "is the slickest piece of detective work pulled off in this neck of the woods for many a day. It completely restores the good reputation of the Chicago police as thief-trackers."

"A woman caused the arrest. Her name is Jeanette Little. She is the sweetheart of the short robber. She was located by Schuetter and Schumaker in Elkhart and she was permitted to learn detectives were after her. She disguised herself as a Mennonite and stumped along on crutches to complete the disguise. When she got on a train there were four men trailing her. They gave out information that she had escaped. They followed her to Chicago and then to St. Louis. At St. Louis the woman got off the train with these four men, her shadows. They were joined by four St. Louis detectives. So clever was their shadow work that she never suspected them.

"The woman, as they suspected, kept an appointment with her burglar sweetheart. It was at a street corner that the two met. In a twinkling they were surrounded. The man never had a chance.

"But the feeble Mennonite woman threw away her crutches and ran like a deer. She outdistanced the fleetest detectives, turned down an alley and got away. The detectives in St. Louis expect to arrest the woman soon. She lived in Chicago at 309 East Twenty-fourth street and it was there the short robber lived until last night. Burns, on orders from Captain Mahoney, was almost beaten to death in his visit, unattended, to their rendezvous.

"The woman was first stopped on Saturday night at the LaSalle street depot while buying a ticket for Elkhart. Her baggage was searched. Detectives found numerous newspaper clippings of the police search for the escaped robber and a revolver in her trunk. They allowed her to go to the farm of her stepfather, J. W. Cramer, but detectives and Pinkerton men watched the farm after her arrival. She started for St. Louis the second day.

"The real inside story of the Burns visit, his battle with the robbers and their escape, may be revealed now. It is expected that the short man will talk.

"The Chicago detectives who made the arrest are Harry L. Cullitt and Ed Mitchell, recently transferred from Harrison street to the detective bureau, especially for this case. The names of the Pinkerton men, who share equal credit, are not divulged."

In Chicago the police arrested two more ex-convicts, "Teewagon Charley" Connors and "Dannie" Callahan. Connors was positively identified as being one of the men who, on April 26, 1911, robbed the jewelry store of Edward Albert, 37-124 Milwaukee avenue, of jewelry valued at $20,000.

Police Captain Halpin, who ordered the men held at the detective bureau last night, said he doubted if they had any connection with the two bank robbers.

MUCH SALMON ON COASTERS.

Vancouver, Sept. 27.—Three coasting steamers were at the C. P. R. pier yesterday discharging canned salmon from Northern British Columbia ports. The British Columbia had 10,000 cases, the Vado had a full shipment, and the Corana had 10,000 cases. A large quantity of salmon is being placed on board the liner Zealandia, due to leave here on October 2 for Auckland and Sydney.

CAREFUL DOCTOR

Prescribed Change of Food Instead of Drugs.

It takes considerable courage for a doctor to deliberately prescribe only food for a despairing patient, instead of resorting to the usual list of medicines.

There are some truly scientific physicians among the present generation who recognize and treat conditions as they are and should be treated, regardless of the value of their pockets. Here's an instance:

"Four years ago I was taken with severe gastritis and nothing would stay on my stomach, so that I was on the verge of starvation.

"I heard of a doctor who had a summer cottage near me—a specialist from N. Y.—and as a last hope, sent for him. After he examined me carefully he advised me to try a small quantity of Grape-Nuts at first, then as my stomach became stronger to eat more.

"I kept at it and gradually got so I could eat and digest three teaspoonfuls. Then I began to have color in my face, memory became clear, where before everything seemed blank. My limbs got stronger and I could walk. So I steadily recovered.

"Now after a year on Grape-Nuts I weigh 153 lbs. My people were surprised at the way I grew fleshy and strong on this food." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

MEXICO WILL STAY IN PORT OVERNIGHT

Japanese Steamship Reaching William Head at 5 o'Clock—Inaba in Morning

Latest reports from the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Mexico Maru, Capt. Kyubashi, state that she will dock here at 5:30 o'clock this evening. At 10:40 o'clock this morning she was aboard of Estevan and her master reported that he would reach William Head at 5 o'clock. Owing to the fact that the Mexico was quarantined at Moji for two weeks as a result of several cases of cholera aboard it is more than likely that she will be detained a short time at the quarantine station.

The Mexico will remain in port overnight discharging 600 tons of cargo, proceeding to Tacoma early in the morning. The Maru was expected here yesterday but heavy weather on the Pacific has delayed her. She has a light list of passengers for Victoria, there being but 88 Orientals bound for this port.

At 11:30 this morning the steamship Inaba Maru, Capt. Tomimaga, of the Nippon line, was reported 150 miles off Estevan. She will not reach William Head until early to-morrow. The Inaba will be in port some time putting off 1,500 tons of cargo and will permit her saloon passengers to witness the celebrations to the Duke of Connaught and the royal party.

Word was received here to-day stating that the steamship Crown of Galicia, of the Harrison line, reached San Francisco yesterday. She will leave the Golden Gate next Tuesday and should arrive here about Friday. The Galicia has a big cargo for Victoria and after her discharge will proceed to Vancouver and later to Prince Rupert, for which port she has a large shipment of pipes.

SUGAR SHIP DUE IN.

Vancouver, Sept. 27.—Bringing a full cargo of sugar from ports in Java, the British steamer Queen Elizabeth is due here to-day and a pilot is awaiting her at Victoria. She was last reported from Moji on September 7, when she took bunk, er coal. She will be followed by the British steamers Auehndale, Strathmore and Aberlour.

The steamer Tyee, Capt. Gilliam, should arrive in port to-morrow from Hobeig and way ports.

FIRST TRAWLER DUE HERE IN TEN DAYS

CANADA NOW STEAMING UP COAST TO VICTORIA

Will Be Overhauled and Sent North at Once—Trymple is Following

First of the steam trawlers to come here from the United Kingdom to fish in Queen Charlotte Island waters for the Doughty interests, the Canada, is expected to put in an appearance here in from a week to ten days. The little vessel is now out from Grimsby, England, about three months, and she has reported at various intervals from her coaling ports. After the Canada arrives she will be given a thorough overhauling and in about a month will be ready to go north.

The Canada is bringing out from England a crew, composed of Grimsby fishermen. Following the Canada

"EMPIRE OUTPOST; VICTORIA THE GOOD"

Flying from the flag-pole at the top of the C. P. R. office building on Belleville street are a number of flags, which to the average person seem to be of no significance, being simply a part of the decorative scheme. The officials of the C. P. R., however, had a different idea when they ran the flags up—and a mariner will interpret the flags as meaning "Empire Outpost; Victoria the Good."

The C. P. R. are flying a great many flags for the celebrations. All boats in port have their streamers of flags flying and the offices are a mass of hunting and flags and at night the building will be illuminated.

around from the United Kingdom is another steam trawler, the Trymple. She will not report here for some time yet, as she sailed several weeks after the Canada. Both trawlers were formerly units of the great Grimsby fleet and have seen considerable service there. The Canada is 151 tons net and was built in Beverley in 1912.

Officials of the B. C. Fisheries, Ltd., state that the pack of salmon at the big Allford Bay cannery at present amounts to 20,000 cases. Provided the weather holds good the packers hope to make their catch 25,000 cases. When the salmon is done the fishermen will turn their attention to halibut fishing, and it is expected that large hauls will be made during the winter. The Canada will be ready to start in the halibut business and her work will be watched with interest.

There was a report in circulation that the Doughty interests were to enter the whaling business and would erect a station on the Queen Charlotte, but this is denied by the officials.

KEEMUN REALLY ON HER LAST VOYAGE

Capt. Conradi Also Making His Last Sea Trip—Details of Dockers' Strike

Official announcement has at last been made that the present trip of the Blue Funnel steamship Keemun, Capt. Conradi, will be her last in the Liverpool-Puget Sound service. On her return from this coast to the United Kingdom she will enter the Australian service. It is also announced that Capt. Conradi is making his last sea voyage, and when he pilots the Keemun back to Liverpool he will retire.

How the strike of dock workers at the English ports affected the shipping business is explained in communications received here from officers on the Keemun. Part of one of the letters is as follows:

"When we reached the channel from Vancouver we were signalled to proceed to Amsterdam instead of London owing to the strike. We proceeded to Amsterdam and discharged all the continental cargo and lay there for 15 days waiting for the strike to terminate at London. Then we got orders to proceed to Liverpool, but when we reached there the dockers went on strike, so we had a lively time and did not get any leave, as we all had to stand by the ship.

LAST BOAT FROM DAWSON.

St. Michael Left There for Fairbanks Yesterday—Shut Off From World for Seven Months.

Seattle, Sept. 27.—The St. Michael, the last steamer from Dawson for Fairbanks, Alaska, left the Klondike port yesterday. She will winter at Fairbanks. For more than seven months the people of the Yukon valley will have no connection with the busy world except by dog sled and horse stage lines.

The last boat from White Pass to Dawson, on the upper Yukon, will leave the former spot between October 4 and 8, the time depending on the stage of water, which is becoming low with the freezing of the country that feeds the stream. The hydraulic mining plants are suspending operations.

STRONG HEAD SEAS ARE MET OFF COAST

Umatilla Was 67 Hours Coming North From 'Frisco—Sound Cruises at End

Strong head seas encountered throughout her northbound trip from San Francisco, with an occasional gale, delayed the Pacific Coast steamship Umatilla in reaching port. She did not tie up at the Outer Docks until after 8 o'clock this morning, it having taken her 67 hours to make the voyage from the Golden Gate. The belated arrival of the Umatilla is the first sign of the approach of winter weather off the West Coast. The officers of the steamship say that at times the seas were running extremely high and that the vessel had to be eased down.

The Sound cruises on the San Francisco boats are about at an end. With the disappearance of summer, which marks the end of holidays, very few people are taking advantage of the trip and this afternoon no one left here on the Umatilla for the five days' trip. A good crowd of passengers came north on the steamship, and quite a number disembarked here, including the following:

P. L. Leon, Gamini Celli, H. Morgenstern, H. H. Yawthorne, Margaret Yawthorne, Herbert Leher and wife, Ella Jones, M. M. Cousins, F. H. Polson, W. J. O'Malley, F. A. Brownell, C. Kimber, Thelma Foulds, Dora B. Greene, Miss M. Whitelaw, P. J. Corin, J. Turner, A. P. Carne, Mrs. Chas. Burges, Dorothy Burges and others.

The Umatilla put off 314 tons of general freight at this port. The big shipments were 3,000 sacks of plaster for Evans, Coleman & Evans; 1,000 sacks of plaster for Balfour, Guthrie & Co., and 800 sacks of wood floor for the Canadian Explosive Company.

HEAD LIGHTS

To-night the C. P. R. steamer Princess Sophia, Capt. Campbell, will leave port for Prince Rupert and Skagway with a good crowd of passengers.

This morning the G. T. P. steamer Prince George, Capt. Saunders, left Prince Rupert for Victoria. She will dock here on Sunday.

The German steamer Peking, bound from Iquique for Hamburg, was spoken on September 16, in lat. 48.55 S., long. 24.35 W.

In December nine wireless stations, covering the whole coast of Chile, will be opened for the use of the public and navigation.

The government of Western Australia, finding that in the operation of railways, street car lines, etc., it has been fairly successful because it had a monopoly—has recently decided to go into the steamship business. Three steamers, at a cost of $335,000, have been purchased and will be employed in the coastwise and also the cattle-carrying trade, in the hope of reducing the cost of living.

CANALS DELIVER KNOCKOUTS.

Panama Will Hand Out Last Blow to the Windjammer—Day Has Come and Gone.

London, Sept. 27.—Sail craft continue to decrease on all the seas and oceans of the world. The first real assault upon the sailing ship came with the opening of the Suez canal in the 60's. The occupation of the clipper ship as regards some of the most important trades of the world was then significantly threatened. It is apparently reserved for the Panama canal, after the lapse of long years, to deliver the final blow at the windjammer. Until within recent times the long voyage trade between this country and the Pacific seaboard of America was a sort of preserve of the sailor. Then steam began to invade even the San Francisco trade. It is now morally certain that the short cut through the Panama canal will presently give the steamship a practical monopoly.

British owners, conscious of the trend of events, have for years past been quietly getting rid of their sailing ships. Even the Scandinavians have now ceased to believe in them. Here and there a vessel may be built, but for all practical purposes the production of wind-driven craft has ceased. Those which are afloat are survivals of a past age.

On September 18 in First Presbyterian Church, Edmonton, Miss Florence Jennie, eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Alex. Forin, became the bride of William Henry Hunt, of Preston, Lancashire, England. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Campbell, of Victoria, an uncle of the bride.

Among those privileged to have an interview with H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught during his visit to Vancouver, were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smart, 123 Seventh Avenue West, Mount Pleasant, Vancouver. Mrs. Smart is the daughter of Mr. John Thomson, Balmoral, Scotland, who is well known to his royal highness, as he is one of the few old-timers still living on the Balmoral estates. With the kindly consideration so characteristic of him his royal highness on arrival in Vancouver, sent a letter to Mrs. Smart, requesting that she and her husband come to the Hotel Vancouver on Friday evening last. Mr. and Mrs. Smart also had the honor of being presented to their royal highnesses the Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia.

The Nelson Daily News contains the following notice of the recent marriage of Dr. Hugh Watt, father of Dr. A. T. Watt, superintendent of the William Head quarantine station, and himself a foremost citizen of Interior British Columbia: "At the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. G. Clarke, Trail, B. C., by Rev. G. A. Mackay, Presbyterian minister, on Monday, Sept. 9, Alice, widow of the late John Nicholson, of Morden, Man., was married to Dr. Hugh Watt, of Fort Steele, B. C. Miss Jessie Nicholson, of Trail, as bridesmaid, attended her mother, and Rev. R. A. Wilson, missionary, of Fort Steele, performed the duties of best man. The wedding was a very quiet one, followed by a supper, attended by the officiating clergyman, the family and a few intimate friends. The wedding party visited Nelson and Balfour on their way home to Fort Steele."

On Wednesday noon in Christ Church Cathedral, Rev. Dean Doull united in wedlock Miss Dorothea Catherine Mummery, daughter of Mr. J. Howard Mummery, of Islip Manor, Northolt, Middlesex, Eng., and Mr. Thomas Jones Lloyd, of Silverton, Sloan Lake. A surprise choir was in attendance. The bride, who was given away by Mr. A. H. Lawder, wore a dress of white crepe de chene, trimmed with old rose-point lace (her mother's lace), and a white satin hat with osprey and plume. Her bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley. The groom was supported by Mr. D. P. Lockhart, a cousin of the bride. After the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party was driven to the Empress Hotel, where about twenty sat down to a wedding breakfast. Among the guests were Mrs. F. D. Roberts, of Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Lawder and Miss Lawder, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lay, Mr. and Mrs. James Ellis, Mrs. B. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. A. St. Clair Brindle, Mrs. and Miss Collis, Miss Hawthmaker, Miss Schmitz, Miss Walbran, Mr. D. P. Lockhart and Mr. E. Jacobs. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd left Victoria by the afternoon steamer for Vancouver to go thence to Banff to spend their honeymoon.

DR. TOLMIE IS AGAIN PRESIDENT

ANNUAL MEETING AT THE FAIR GROUNDS

Agricultural Association Shows
Their Confidence in Presiding Officers

The annual meeting of the British Columbia Agricultural Association was held this morning in the Women's Building at the fair grounds, the president, Dr. Tolmie, presiding, and being re-elected by acclamation to this office which he has held for three consecutive years. The elections for vice-presidents resulted in the following: 1st vice-president, Capt. Watson; 2nd vice, Mr. Grant; 3rd vice, A. D. Patterson; 4th vice, F. Bishop; and 5th vice, Mrs. Hutchison. Alderman Porter's name was the only one added to the executive committee, all the previous members of the executive remaining as heretofore.

Dr. Tolmie, in thanking the members for their expression of confidence in him as president, said that the officers of the association felt much encouraged by the loyal support given them by those associated with them in the work, and that the present show was the best that had ever been held here. The manufacturers were not so well represented as he should like to have seen them, owing to the lack of accommodation. He had spoken to several of the aldermen on the subject of increasing the buildings and the suggestion had met with unanimous approval. Efforts should be made to attract the attention of the outside districts and to make Victoria the standard show on Vancouver Island. In this connection he would like to refer to the attitude of the real estate men who told them that they had no time for farming, and would like to make the district between here and Comox a playground.

The attendance at this morning's meeting was very good, and early in the course of proceedings a resolution of sympathy was passed for the widow of the late Harry Helmcken, who had shown so much interest in the work of the association in past years. Secretary Sangster, who was re-elected to office by unanimous vote, was appointed as a delegate to attend the fair convention next January, and was asked to endeavor to get the dates September 23 to 27 inclusive for the next Victoria fair.

The question of more suitable judging rings was brought up by Captain Grant, who suggested that the rings be located in the centre field, this suggestion, however, giving way to one for the erection of a grandstand in the vicinity of the cattle sheds, where people could easily see the judging of the animals as this progressed.

It was also suggested that more poultry sheds should be erected, these to take the form of model houses to accommodate about 25 or 30 birds each, and also that the present building should be better lighted.

In endorsing the suggestions made by the various members of the association, who spoke on the subject, Dr. Tolmie expressed his thanks for the encouraging attitude taken by poultrymen all over the island in connection with this department, saying that they had done a great work in helping toward the success of the various poultry exhibitions in the past.

Miss Bainbridge-Smith moved that a committee of ladies be appointed to revise the regulations in connection with the work in the women's building, this being carried and a committee of three, composed of Mesdames Palmer, Sweepman and Gale, with power to add to their members, was appointed to take up this work. Mrs. Hutchison's motion that nursery space be set aside in the women's building at future exhibitions, in order that mothers might leave their children in charge of an attendant appointed for the purpose, was referred, at the president's suggestion, to this committee, also the suggestion re the forming of a model bearing garden in connection with the women's building—both of which matters will be brought forward at the next committee meeting.

It was decided that something should be done to regulate the space devoted to the various district exhibits, each of the districts to be allotted a certain space, and to be given the opportunity of filling this.

Mr. Price, speaking from the manufacturers' point of view, called attention once more to the limited accommodation afforded for exhibits of machinery, saying that the whole fair would greatly benefit from a larger display of machinery—a fact which might easily be seen from the crowds which regularly gathered wherever any sort of moving machinery was to be seen.

The president replied that he had spoken to the mayor and council on the matter of a new building, and that they had promised to give their support to the idea—a committee of three composed of Messrs. Weston, Price and H. Pullerton, being afterwards appointed by the meeting to go into this matter further, and to report at the next meeting of the executive.

TRAINING YOUTH OF AUSTRALIA

COMPULSORY SYSTEM AGAIN ATTACKED

Thousands of Boys Declared to Be Shirking Military Drill

London, Sept. 27.—In view of the prediction made by General Hamilton that England will soon adopt compulsory military training of youths, another attack by the London newspapers on Australia's compulsory system is particularly interesting.

Although the recent assertions and misstatements of the Daily Chronicle concerning Australia's unenthusiastic reception of compulsory soldiering have been officially denied by the Commonwealth government, the paper again attacks the system.

The Daily Chronicle now declares that there are at least 30,000 drill shirkers in Sydney alone, and that the national resentment of the 60,000 youths who are obeying the law is considerably increased because so many of their fellows are escaping their drills.

On the other hand, the Daily News states that there are not more than 8,000 who are avoiding compulsory training.

Still further condemnation of Australian laws are made when the Morning Post enters the field of criticism and attacks the immigration act. The Post maintains that the Australian government is wrong in preventing immigrants from landing in the Commonwealth under a working contract. According to that paper, there should be no restrictions placed on immigration save those of health and character.

In replying to these criticisms Theodore Fink, editor of the Melbourne Herald, declares that Australians are more strenuous than the Englishman, and do more work in eight hours than the Englishman does in ten. He contrasts the starvation wage of England with the wage paid to the Australian workman, which allows that workman to live comfortably.

WILL CARRY CASE TO HIGHER COURT

Decision of Toronto Board of Revision Means Loss to Civic Revenue

Toronto, Sept. 27.—The court of revision rendered a decision yesterday afternoon in the hydro-electric commission's appeal from the city's assessment against their several properties in Toronto, allowing the appeal for exemption.

The affirmative members of the court were Chairman Drayton and W. Ardagh, a dissenting opinion being rendered by W. A. Smith.

The decision means a loss to the civic revenue of $60,000 in actual cash. Acting Assessment Commissioner Lyon gave notice that the city would carry to the higher court of justice.

The judgment, which was a written one, declared the hydro-electric commissioners to be the servants of the public and the agents of the city, and accordingly their property would come under the exemption act.

McMANIGAL CLOSELY GUARDED.
Arrives at Indianapolis, Where He Will Be Star Witness in Conspiracy Case.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 27.—Ortie E. McManigal, industrialist of Malcom, N. B., one of the defendants in the conspiracy case, arrived in this city from Los Angeles to-day to be the government's witness in the trial of the so-called dynamiting conspiracy in the federal court beginning next Tuesday. McManigal was taken to the federal building, where two rooms had been furnished for his occupancy during the trial. Guards were set at the doors and agents of the department of justice said every precaution would be taken against interference with McManigal.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 27.—W. J. McCain, business agent of the Bridge and Structural Ironworkers' union No. 10, of Kansas City, and W. Benjamin Brown, former business agent of the same union, will leave for Indianapolis to-night, where they will stand trial October 11, on charges of conspiracy in connection with the McNamara dynamiting cases.

MAGISTRATE SCORES MAYOR.

Vancouver, Sept. 27.—At a meeting of the police commissioners yesterday afternoon Mayor Findlay and other members of the board commented on the case of a man named Matheson, who had been found guilty of brutally assaulting a policeman. The mayor said the man ought to get five years and be publicly whipped. Commissioner Leek spoke in a similar strain and reference was made to the fact that the man would come up to-day for sentence. When Matheson was called this morning, Magistrate Shaw gave the mayor a grilling. He declared that he must protest in the strongest possible terms against such interference and objected to such statements being made when decisions had not been given. The magistrate said he would adjourn the case until next week for sentence. He declared that by that time he would feel in shape to deliver a calm judgment regarding the matter.

CONTRACTORS ARE RUSHING WORK

CLOSING UP GAP IN THE TRANSCONTINENTAL

Line Between Winnipeg and
Cochrane Will Be Completed by November

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—Major Leonard, chairman of the national transcontinental commission, received word from the contractors who are closing up the line between Winnipeg and Cochrane, that the last section will be completed by November 1. This means that after the first of November the national transcontinental will be available for carrying wheat from the West.

At Cochrane there is a connection with the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway, so that wheat can be brought south to Toronto and Montreal.

The opening of the transcontinental to Cochrane is of the greatest importance to the West, and lessens by almost one-half the likelihood of a serious grain blockade. Hitherto there has been but a single track east of Port Arthur, and at the close of navigation there was bound to be a congestion at the head of the lakes. The government appreciated the necessity of rushing the transcontinental to Cochrane, and last winter orders were given to the contractors to rush work at the greatest possible speed. Shortage of labor and inclement weather has retarded the work and at one time it was feared the line would not be completed. However, this week the transcontinental commission has word that steel would be connected up by the end of next month.

ENGINEER KILLED IN COLLISION

Conductor and Brakeman Sustained Injuries Which May Prove Fatal

Kenora, Ont., Sept. 27.—As the result of a rear-end collision between extra No. 4 and a freight standing on a siding early to-day on the C. P. R. near Busted, Engineer A. D. Clarke is dead, and Conductor J. H. Neal and Brakeman Dowd, of the freight train, perhaps fatally injured. Two coaches were burned and three freight cars demolished.

Nine Persons Injured.
London, Ont., Sept. 27.—Grand Trunk train No. 16 was wrecked five miles west of Chatham yesterday afternoon, and nine people were badly injured, and one of these, a Miss Lafferty, of Chatham, will probably die. The other injured are: Mrs. Mead, Kentbridge, Ont.; Robt. Coyle, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Richards, Chatham; Mrs. J. T. Lewis, Detroit, Mich.; Miss Cox and Miss Costello, Toronto; and Mr. Gray, Bradford.

The accident came while the train was running 45 miles an hour. A diner and day coach jumped the track and telescoped. All the other cars remained on the track. The injured were taken to Chatham hospital. The train was in charge of Conductor Huggins and Engineer Overend, both of Toronto.

VICTORY FOR CHAMPION.

Boston, Sept. 27.—Miss Mary Browne, of Pasadena, Cal., the national lawn tennis champion, added to her court laurels to-day by defeating Miss Eleanor Sears in the finals of the Longwood cricket club's fall tournament in two long-fought sets. The scores were 12-11, 6-4.

TEXTILE WORKERS STRIKE.

Lawrence, Mass., Sept. 27.—The second great strike within a year began in the Lawrence textile mills when more than 12,000 operatives abandoned their machines. The strike is a protest against the imprisonment of Joseph J. Ettor and Arturo Giovannetti.

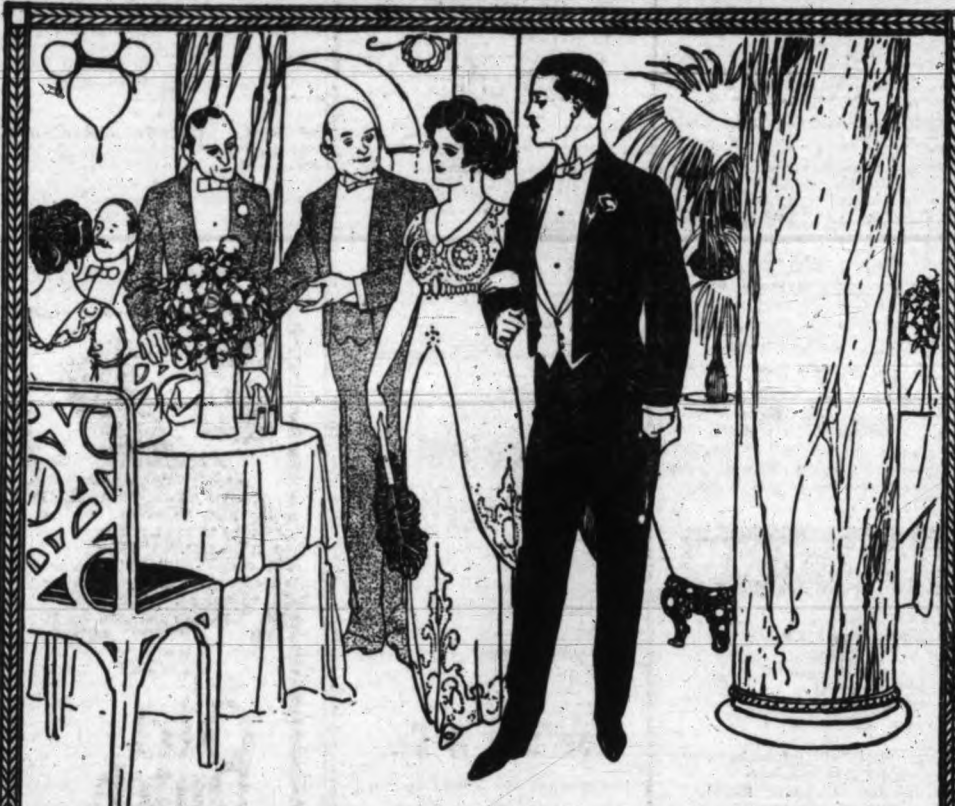

Four mills owned by the American Woolen Company are the most seriously affected. Several hundred operatives from other mills also joined the movement. No serious disorders have occurred, although several arrests were made.

A general strike of the I. W. W. has been advocated by William D. Haywood and other leaders as a protest against the imprisonment of Ettor and Giovannetti. The latter, in a letter given out a few days ago, advised against such a strike.

GERMAN SAILORS ASSIST FIREMEN

Join Canadian Troops in Fighting Blaze in Warehouse at Halifax

Halifax, Sept. 27.—A spectacular fire took place at 2 o'clock this morning when George C. Cook's warehouse on Water street was completely destroyed, together with all its contents, causing a loss estimated at $20,000.

The fire was confined to the Cook building, and the firemen were greatly assisted by the Canadian soldiers and German sailors. When the flames were observed from the clifftop a detachment of a couple of hundred soldiers was dispatched to the scene. The Victoria 14-15, the German training ship in the harbor, sent two boat loads of sailors, dressed in white, fully equipped for assisting in the fight, and lent the most valuable aid. They came within ten minutes of the outbreak of the fire.

tury age, appeared to the curious citizens, may be gathered from a newspaper account of his welcome at the ocean docks. "In the matter of good looks," the reporter wrote, "Nature has dealt very fairly with the Prince. He is of a fine, manly presence, with the figure of the thorough soldier, dark brown hair and a luxuriant moustache. His smile is pleasant and his recognition of each new friend was particularly hearty."

His Worship Mayor John Grant (now a resident and official of the Yukon Territory), was in general charge of the civic hostilities, which were not of any pretentious character, the visit being far removed from official in any sense. Upon the Prince's landing there were presented to him various prominent citizens of the day, and an appropriate civic address of welcome was read, eliciting a cordial and admirably worded response. His Royal Highness, with an escort including Col. Prior, Col. Holmes, Lieut. Ogilvie and Mr. Stanton, was then driven to the Provincial Jubilee hospital, which had just been completed, and gracefully performed the ceremony incident to the formal opening of that institution for the care and cure of sick and suffering humanity. A welcoming committee representative of the board of the hospital was comprised of Messrs. Robert and W. C. Ward, James Fell, George Byrnes, Alex. Wilson and Dr. J. C. Davis, of whom but Mr. Wilson remains a resident of Victoria. The Messrs. Ward years since returned to England and now count London their home; Messrs. Fell, Byrnes and Davis have during the intervening years been summoned to their last long sleep.

A visit to Esquimalt, luncheon with the naval officers there—Victoria in those days being still an important naval station under the meteor flag—and dinner at Government House, where Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Nelson were charming host and hostess, summed up the other features of the last dual visit, the party leaving at night for Vancouver and the long rail journey eastward to the Atlantic shores. At the Terminal City their arrival was in a driving storm of rain, and was unmarked by much more excitement than then evinced in connection with the daily arrival of an overland express. There was a band of music, and Mayor David Oppenheimer voiced the cordial greeting and loyalty of Vancouver citizens; His Royal Highness was the guest at a civic luncheon, and afterward the party were driven through and admired the primeval grandeur of Stanley park. And that was all until their departure from the city of the western gate over which the sphinx-like Lions stand sentinel throughout the centuries.

En route eastward through British Columbia both the Duke and his Duchess were as enthusiastic over the changing scenes as the most ardent champion of C. P. R. scenic opulence might possibly desire. The great Fraser, winding, twisting, whirling white between its mountain banks, so absorbed the attention of the party that the train was run at snail's pace through the mighty canyon, while the various features of interest—the Indian graves, the Chinese gold washing, the giant forests, and the old Cariboo road, winding now down, now up, half way between the river and the sky—were duly noted and appreciatively discussed.

Whenever a stop was made for water or orders, the Prince was on the platform almost before the train was at a standstill, chatting with whomever was to be found to talk to, and inquiring in regard to the size and character of the local population, the nature of the environment, its resources and the state of its development. His questions proved his genuine interest in the country, not as a more casual observer, but as an intelligent student, while his genial, off-hand manner with all types of humanity with whom he came in contact showed strikingly in contrast with the traditional stiffness of official functions.

At one of the rural stopping places on the first day's eastward run an excellent illustration of the Prince's invariable good humor was afforded. The Prince and all members of the party were pronouncing the little platform and the scant population who had gathered to see the train pass through were anxiously inquiring of one another, "Which is the Duke?" The rough but friendly fellow, an acquaintance of the engine driver, thought that he at least would get some definite information, and so he bluntly asked his friend of the throttle, "I say, which is his royal nibs anyway?"

Prince Arthur was at the moment standing almost beside the speaker, and the manner of the interrogation amused him mightily. He turned to the questioner—the driver was too overwhelmed for speech—and, holding out his hand, said, "I'm the man."

NO MORE LENIENCY TO BE DISPLAYED

Government Will Insist Upon
Pre-emptors Performing Settlement Duties

Many persons throughout the province who have taken up pre-emptions and have not performed the required settlement duties are liable to find themselves in trouble with the lands department ere long, the government announcing that less leniency will be displayed in the future than in the past. Hitherto when a man applied for a pre-emption, the fact was entered in the books of the lands department here and remained there until application was made for the Crown grant. If the pre-emptor abandoned the land the government had no knowledge of the fact except in the event of some other party seeking the land and making application for it, whereupon its status would be made the subject of inquiry.

It is alleged that little harm resulted through the operation of this defective system, except perhaps in the case of forested land, and the government claims to have given the pre-emptor every possible consideration. Of late, however, it has been adjudged wisdom to tighten up the system, insisting that the pre-emptor perform his settlement work within a reasonable period. With this object in view an inspector of pre-emptions, Mr. Hutchinson, has been appointed, and other inspectors will be named in the near future. Their duty will be to examine all pre-emptors in order to note what progress the settler is making and keep him up to the mark as much as possible.

Inspector Hutchinson, who is now on his first official tour, was in the Okanagan at last reports, and had already warned several pre-emptors that it would be wisdom on their part to get busy. Mr. H. Cathcart, the newly appointed deputy minister, will have special charge of these pre-emption inspectors and will see that the pre-emption books in the land office here are kept up to date.

With regard to forest lands the complaint was voiced at the recent forestry convention that what is really timber land has been frequently given to pre-emptors, and has then been promptly logged off and abandoned. This abuse the department officials say has never developed serious proportions, and it is promised that it will be corrected by the forestry bureau, which will in future see to it that no land is classed agricultural which has on it more than the legal percentage of timber.

GORGE ROAD PAVING NOT YET SETTLED

Contract for Second Section
Still Held Up—Street
Cleaning Question

On account of the clash of time with the royal reception, the usual Friday streets committee meeting will not take place till Monday. The improvement of the Gorge road, by permanently paving an important section from Manchester road to Carroll street, has been before the committee for some weeks. Although the project of completing the work has been endorsed, Alderman Beard having worked hard to carry the proposal through, the difficulty is one of finances. For the same reason expropriation proceedings are moving slowly until the money market has had time to absorb the Canadian securities and money is easier to borrow than at present.

The council still waits patiently for the street sweeping brush ordered last fall, and not yet delivered. It is to be hoped it will be to hand by the time the streets get dirty with the mud of winter, for the merchants have some right to complain should the situation of last winter be repeated. Last winter they complained of the mud carried into their stores, damaging goods. It is clear that until water is flowing through the pipes from Sooke lake the city cannot spare water for flushing to a greater extent than at present. So the arrival of the brush is eagerly anticipated by the engineering department, who are anxious to get to work before complaints arise similar to those of last winter.

PASSING SHOW

The Empress Theatre.

With a moral, a sermonette regarding illness and bad companionship, strongly developed "The Pool Room," a strikingly dramatic sketch which Chas. Wildish and five other actors present at the Empress theatre this week, ranks high among the playlets seen in vancouver.

John Deimore and Miss Olive Adair appear in a novel act entitled "Scenes Behind the Scenes."

Marie Hylands and Constance Farmer, two charming young women, who sing and dance equally well, offer a sprightly soubrette act, in which the former appears as a "boy" to good advantage.

Scott and Wilson, a duo of comedy acrobats, provoke much laughter with their funny tumbling.

Two cycling comedians, MacRae and Levering, do some good work on the wheel and off the wheel. Some of their comedy falls are most amusing. They do some excellent track riding.

the "Pickwick Papers," by Charles Dickens, is a splendid picture. All the Edison stars are in the cast. There is some delightful comedy, especially in the court room scene. The particular adventure portrayed is that of the entanglement best known as "Bardell vs. Pickwick." "The Narrow Road" (Biograph) is a story with a moral, and it is clearly brought out. It is a stirring picture with an unusual number of scenes and consequently rapid action. Two men released from prison the same day go different ways, the younger to his faithful wife, the older to counterfeiting. The older man tries to lead the younger man astray—to join him in his counterfeiting work. How and why he failed makes an interesting tale. "In Exile" is a picturesque drama of love and duty produced in beautiful orange blossom land. "The Baseball Industry" is a good, interesting industrial film. It closes with portraits of the chief players of the Athletics, of Philadelphia, and a crack game between the Athletics and Senators, of Washington.

EASY RECIPES FOR HEALTH AND BEAUTY

HARMLESS FLESH-REDUCER—Fatty tissues reduce readily by using paraffin. Dissolve four ounces of paraffin in one and one-half pints hot water; take a tablespoonful before each meal. This harmless treatment takes away the fat without wrinkling the skin. In this manner a most satisfactory reduction in weight can be attained in a short time without resorting to harsh exercise or a restricted diet.

TO DISSOLVE THE HAIRS—Superfluous hairs are quickly removed from the skin with a single application of a dentone paste made by mixing enough powdered dentone and water to cover the hairy surface. Apply and let remain two or three minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This method is harmless and does not discolor the skin.

BLACKHEAD REMOVER—To destroy blackheads, freckles, enlarged dirt-collecting pores and similar complexion blemishes, use the following greaseless cream-jelly: Stir together and let stand over night, one ounce of alcohol, one-half pint cold water and two teaspoonfuls glycerine. This clears and softens the skin splendidly and is excellent for massaging to remove wrinkles. It freshens up the complexion and is a great aid to beauty.

ECONOMY IN SHAMPOOING—Any woman, no matter how abundant her hair, can now easily do her own shampooing in a few minutes time by using a simple, inexpensive shampoo made by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthox in a cup of hot water. Canthox lathers freely and cleanses perfectly, taking out all dirt and dust. The hair rinses easily, dries quickly and will be much more fluffy, soft and lustrous than with any other shampoo. It does not streak or bleach the hair like soap does.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY TIMES

Victoria's Royal Visitors

The Soldier Prince and His Splendid Career

His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, K. G., is a son of Queen Victoria, a brother of King Edward and uncle of our present monarch, George V. His name to be exact is Arthur William Patrick Albert, and his natal day was May 1, 1850. On the Queen's visit to Ireland an old woman shouted: "Call your next son Patrick," "and all old Ireland will die for you!" Not

Regiment of Artillery. Eighteen months later began that connection with the Rifle Brigade which to-day finds the Duke its colonel-in-chief, and, finally, his practical acquaintance with all arms was completed by a period of service in the 7th Hussars. Staff service naturally followed, and as brigade major of the Cavalry Brigade at Aldershot and as assistant adjutant-general at Gibraltar he was trained for the post of field marshal commanding-in-chief and high commissioner in the Mediterranean. After two winters' work he, however, decided to resign, to the great regret of the residents of Malta, with whom both His Royal Highness and the Duchess were immensely popular. From early days as a cadet the Duke of Connaught has set an example of what a soldier's life should be. Ever

H. R. H. DUKE OF CONNAUGHT WITH KING MANUEL AND THE PRINCE OF WALES AT THE GARTER INVESTITURE AT ST. GEORGE'S CHAPEL, WINDSOR

long afterwards, on the 1st of May, 1850, the Queen's third son and seventh child, the Duke of Connaught, was born. He was christened Arthur William Patrick Albert—"Arthur" after the Duke of Wellington, on whose eighty-first birthday he was born, "William" after the prince of Prussia, who, as the Queen wrote to her "dearest uncle" (Leopold of Belgium), "thus travelled night and day from St. Petersburg to be in time for the christening of our little Arthur"; "Patrick," in remembrance of the Irish visit, and "Albert," after the Prince Consort.

His Birth.

The Duke is a godson of the great Iron Duke, the victor of Waterloo, and furnishes the only instance, at any rate in modern times, of a scion of English royalty being sponsored at his christening by anyone not a member of one of the reigning houses of Europe. The old Duke of Wellington, who was devoted to Queen Victoria, whom he had known since her earliest childhood, was much interested in the birth of the Duke of Connaught, and when at Buckingham Palace he asked the nurse, in his brusque, curt way, immediately after the happy event had taken place, whether the new-born child was a girl or a boy, she answered him, in a manner that Thackeray records as follows, in homely verse:

Then Mrs. Lily, the nurse,
Toward them steps with joy;
Says the brave old Duke:
"Come; tell to us,
Is it a gal or a boy?"
Says Mrs. L. to the Duke:
"Your Grace, it is a Prince."
And at that nurse's bold rebuke
He did both laugh and wince.

Childhood Days.

Around his childhood days are woven no wonderful tales. He was a very ordinary child, fond of every out-door amusement, and well fitted physically to bear his part in them. Even his fond mother, Queen Victoria, found little unusual to relate of him in her daily diary, and only on rare occasions mentioned the romping child in the nursery. To be exact only three references are made to him in the records covering the eleven years following his birth. The young Duke lived in the nursery in seclusion; the glare of publicity was there unknown.

His Military Career.

In 1869 his Royal Highness, after passing through the prescribed course at the Royal Military Academy at Woolwich, obtained his commission as a lieutenant in the Royal Engineers, from which corps he was transferred five months afterwards to the Royal duties of a brigadier-general, which he assumed at Aldershot in 1880. Two years later the Duke's ambition as a soldier was realized when, in command of the First Brigade (Guards), he served in the Egyptian war of 1882 and was present at the battle of Tel-el-Kebir. His conduct on this occasion was eloquently borne testimony to by Lord Wolseley, and mentioned in dispatches; he received the thanks of both houses of parliament, the C. B., the second-class of the Medjidieh, the medal with clasp, and the Khedive's star.

Command in India.

Returning to Aldershot, he was in a few months selected for a major-general's command in Bengal, and three years later succeeded to the command of the Bombay army, which he held until March, 1890. This position gave him an opportunity of studying questions connected with army administration in India, which in after years bore fruit in more than one speech in the House of Lords, where his contributions to debate were received with the respect due to an expert. After his return to England, his next command was at Portsmouth, which, to the great gratification of that seaport, he held for over three years, when he was transferred to Aldershot to command the troops at that station in succession to Sir Evelyn Wood. Five years at the great military camp served to establish a reputation for hard work and application to detail which had previously been recognized by those brought into intimate personal relations with the Duke, and when during his subsequent tenure of the appointment of commander of the forces in Ireland the government of the day found it impossible, in answer to his repeated requests, to employ him in a position befitting his rank in the war then proceeding in South Africa, it was generally felt throughout the army that this decision, though perhaps inevitable in the circumstances, was extremely hard on an able soldier.

Inspector-General.

The reorganization of the war office and headquarters staff in 1904 created the post of inspector-general of the forces and president of the selection board, and it came as no surprise that the Duke of Connaught's claims to such an appointment received due recognition. His tenure of the post can, however, hardly have been satisfactory to him. If report can be trusted, his recommendations addressed to the newly-created army council did not always receive the consideration to which they were entitled, and it was doubtless with relief that the Duke, after less than four years, took up the ready to work, in the cause of others, he has never spared himself, and his retirement from the army was greatly regretted by all, especially by the rank and file, with whom his popularity has been at all times exceptional. A courteous gentleman, a brave soldier, and a true friend, he terminated his fine military career with the heartfelt gratitude and sympathy of all who were privileged to serve with him.

As Governor-General.

During the last year Canada has witnessed for the first time a prince of the royal family representing the monarch of the British Empire in a self-governing dependency beyond the seas. Politicians and many others have dreamed of the coming of such a day, but not until quite recently was its feasibility seriously considered. The deep rooted aversion of the late Queen Victoria to having any of her sons live beyond the seas combined with a fear lest the experiment should prove a disastrous failure prevented the fruition of their fondest hopes. Even King Edward himself—the most democratic monarch of the Empire—shared in a measure the views of his royal mother and feared, it is said, lest some act of the royal governor-general should reduce the popularity of the sovereign with the people.

But men and times change rapidly. Earl Grey exalted the position of Governor-General of Canada to a height unknown before, and a strong feeling existed that only one of royal rank should occupy the "throne" of the colony at the end of his tenure of office.

Urged King George.

The Duke of Connaught—more democratic even than his royal brother, King Edward, urged his nephew, King George, to appoint him to the Canadian position, and this must be accepted as a high compliment to the Canadian people.

Urged King George.

The Duke of Connaught—more democratic even than his royal brother, King Edward, urged his nephew, King George, to appoint him to the Canadian position, and this must be accepted as a high compliment to the Canadian people.

The Duke of Connaught is a direct descendant of William I., King of England, commonly called the Conqueror. He is of the twenty-eighth generation descended from that famous old warrior. The Duke, in addition to the prestige attaching to him as only living brother of the late King Edward, is a man of quite exceptional ability and undeniable imperial value. He is a good speaker, has a strong sense of duty and singular honesty of purpose, and with it all he combines that gentleness and charm which is invaluable in a viceroy (whose duties, after all, are very largely social), and which were such salient characteristics of that most able of men, his father, the Prince Consort.

Declined a Throne.

To continue his military career cost him a throne, but no one has ever heard the Duke express any regret for the loss. When his nephew, Prince Alfred of Coburg, came to his death in such shocking fashion it became necessary to proclaim an heir to the throne of the ill-fated lad's father, the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha. Next in the line of succession was the Duke of Connaught, but he declined the double honor, declaring that he infinitely preferred his position as an English general to the crown of any Teuton sovereign belonging to the German confederation. An acceptance on the part of the Duke would have been very popular in Germany, for he was always extremely well liked there, general Anglophobia to the contrary notwithstanding. Moreover, for his wife's sake, the Duke might well expect to be persona grata in Germany, since his father-in-law was Prince Frederick Charles of Prussia, who won fame in the wars of 1849, 1864 and 1866 as the greatest cavalry leader of the day.

An Iroquois Chief.

Forty years ago, then a youth of twenty, the Duke came to Canada and served through the Fenian Raid, and one of the most interesting reminiscences recalls his visit to the Indian reserve at Hochelaga near Montreal, when he was made "blood brother and chief" of the Iroquois, most powerful of the once all-powerful native tribes known as the Six Nations Indians of Canada. The ceremony has been splendidly described by Miss E. Pauline Johnson in her Legends of Vancouver. Miss Johnson's father inducted the Duke in his chieftainship. Since then the Duke has several times returned to the Dominion, each visit enhancing not only his own, but his family's popularity; while his son, Prince Arthur—the only adult Prince of the Blood in England—won on his own account golden opinions in Canada when he toured the country five years ago.

The Duke is of a most democratic disposition, although he can be as aristocratic as necessary when the occasion demands such conduct.

The tour of South Africa, followed by the Governor-Generalship in Canada, has entirely dispelled the mystery in which, comparatively speaking, the personality of the Duke of Connaught was for a long time involved.

Although at twenty years of age the Duke of Connaught was in Canada serving in the suppression of the Fenian Raid, although he saw severe fighting in the Egyptian campaign, and although he has served with the highest rank all over the British Empire, he remained a stranger to the world. He shunned the crowd. He brought up his children in comparative seclusion. He disliked anything calculated to render him the cynosure of the public eye.

A Great Martinet.

The business in life of the Duke of Connaught was soldiering. He knows all about guns, uniforms, ammunition, ordinance and commissary stores. He has made a specialty of inspection. It is the knowledge of detail possessed by the Duke that has won him his peculiar distinction as the greatest martinet in the service. He will worry himself into fidgets over the shoes worn by a regiment. Time and again he has invaded a garrison in India to see whether the bayonets are clean. He is known by sight to thousands of private soldiers in the British army from Egypt all the way to India. His tours of inspection are never perfunctory. He has tasted the food, tested the medicine and even carried the accoutrement of the private soldier in performance of his perpetual inspection.

Sober Enough for a Civilian. One of his "fads" is early rising. Another is well-polished boots. He has a peculiar dislike of slovenliness in personal attire. To a young officer who apologized for the state of his sword upon inspection the Duke said: "Your excuse is so good that you must be an old offender, sir." "Sold tea, eh," he repeated, when a subaltern's grandfather's occupation was alleged against him at an officer's mess. "Well, that's not so bad as a grandfather who sold promotions." The words were spoken in the presence of a general whose grandfather had been notoriously venal. A dispute as to the sobriety of a certain colonel was summarily settled by His Highness. "Just able to walk straight, was he?" repeated the Duke. "That's sober enough for a civilian, but it's very drunk for a soldier."

Adventures Afloat.

On one occasion, while travelling in India, His Royal Highness planned to break his journey at Port Said with the idea of a trip to the Pyramids. The captain of the P. & O. boat had been told of the Duke's coming, and as a special mark of honor, had all his officers drawn up to welcome his distinguished passenger.

Presently a man-of-war's boat came alongside, and the port captain of the guardship, accompanied by two gentlemen in plain clothes, ran up the ladder. The P. & O. captain, who was acquainted with the naval commander,

We will offer a rare opportunity to the investor and homeseeker alike on Monday.

The "cream" of Esquimalt's superb seafront will be placed on the market at extremely reasonable prices and terms.

Esquimalt is the first easily-reached, good harbor north of San Francisco. Its future is bound up in that of Victoria. We believe in Victoria. So do you. Therefore you, doubtless being acquainted with the many important projects under way towards the Island's development, can picture as well as we the adjacent port's splendid destiny.

There our property is situated. It is in the centre of Esquimalt activity. E. & N. and C. & R. railways are near by. There are eighty park-like acres with half a mile of waterfront. The latter is irregular with cosy bays and inviting beaches. From almost all points a clear, unobstructed view is available of the Straits, set off by the Olympic Mountains. Besides there is protection from the prevailing winds.

Four miles out only, easily reached by street car and boat, automobile or train, there is no transportation problem.

The subdivision is artistic in design. Lots are large—averaging a quarter acre. Water will be laid on to every one by the Esquimalt Water Works Co. We recommend this, without hesitation, as an ideal homesite or a money-making investment. You are invited to see us for plans and particulars.

H. R. H. DUKE OF CONNAUGHT AT A MILITARY REVIEW.

STRAIGHTENING OUT RAILWAY TANGLE

CONFERENCE OVER
V. & S. FRANCHISE

Tentative Agreement is Arranged, Pending Confirmation by Authorities

T. C. Gilman, executive assistant of the Great Northern railway, accompanied by the general counsel in Seattle, Mr. Brown and A. H. MacNeill, general counsel of the railway in British Columbia, were in the city yesterday in conference with representatives of the government, and Mayor Beckwith and former City Solicitor McDiarmid with regard to the tangled position of the V. & S. and Victoria Terminal railway franchises, and the appeal to the railway minister, Hon. Thomas Taylor, by the city over the obstruction of tracks on Blanchard avenue. The latter case is already in the courts, and like Jarndyce and Jarndyce does not seem likely to emerge therefrom without mutual consent.

The whole matter was thoroughly discussed in its many ramifications, and ultimately in order to bring an end to the actions and counter actions, and to lead to the improvement of the roadbed and rolling stock it is believed an arrangement has been reached, which will be acceptable to the three interests concerned.

The proposal will be reported to the city council at the next meeting, but in brief it is that the Great Northern railway shall take over the interests of the two companies, the Victoria Terminal railway, as owning the terminal, and the line from Hillside avenue, and also the portion of track at the Sidney end, and the Victoria & Sidney railway as owners of the balance of the line, and in return shall make a substantial offer to the city, details of which will be published later.

The report of the minister of railways, Hon. Thos. Taylor, on the Blanchard street obstruction, is expected shortly. It is understood that Sir Richard McBride had a discussion with Mr. Gilman after the other representatives left on the question of the continuation of the line of the company to the Indian reserve, in connection with the proposed union terminal.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY

An eminent scientist, the other day, gave his opinion that the most wonderful discovery of recent years was the discovery of Zam-Buk. Just think! As soon as a single thin layer of Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or a sore, such injury is insured against blood poisoning! Not one species of microbe has been found that Zam-Buk does not kill!

Then again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a sore, or a cut, or to skin disease, it stops the smarting. That is why children are such friends of Zam-Buk. They care nothing for the science of the thing. All they know is that Zam-Buk stops their pain. Mothers should never forget this.

Again. As soon as Zam-Buk is applied to a wound or to a diseased part, the cells beneath the skin's surface are so stimulated that new healthy tissue is quickly formed. This forming of fresh healthy tissue from below is Zam-Buk's secret of healing. The tissue thus formed is worked up to the surface and literally casts off the diseased tissue above it. This is why Zam-Buk cures are permanent.

Only the other day Mr. Marsh, of 101 Delorimier Ave., Montreal, called upon the Zam-Buk Co., and told them that for over twenty-five years he had been a martyr to eczema. His hands were at one time so covered with sores that he had to sleep in gloves. Four years ago Zam-Buk was introduced to him, and in a few months it cured him. To-day—over three years after his cure of a disease he had for twenty-five years—he is still cured, and has had no trace of any return of the eczema!

All druggists sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, or we will send free trial box if you send this advertisement and a 1c. stamp (to pay return postage.) Address Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

EXEMPTION OF CHURCH PROPERTY FROM TAXES

Case of St. Andrew's Church May Reopen Issue Considered Settled With Single Tax Adoption

The question which is raised in the communication of the managers of St. Andrew's church with regard to the exemption from taxation of that church site and building under the provisions of the municipal clauses act, which the city council has referred to the solicitor for advice and report, creates a problem that will be perplexing to the city fathers. With the adoption of the principle of single tax, the proposal to secure exemption would result in creating a state of things which the council had in mind to prevent.

They desired to remove the churches from the business district and place them in more suitable portions of the city. This proposal, while it is undoubtedly in its application limited to a single case, must also materially affect another large church estate not far from St. Andrew's, that of Christ church, in connection with which a private bill was passed in the last session of the legislature to enable the trustees to deal with a large quantity of land which had become expensive to leave unimproved under the single tax principle. Of the other churches the majority have already prepared to leave their sites and go further out of town where property is less valuable, and the noise of traffic is reduced.

When the provincial tax commission were holding their sessions in the city last fall they had evidence which convinced them of the desire of some of the churches not to be treated differently from other land owners, in view of the common charges which church property causes to the community in police protection, fire protection, repair of streets, and similar public works.

CAPITAL COMING HERE NEXT YEAR

SUCH IS THE OPINION OF BANK PRESIDENT

Says More Attention Should Be Devoted to Resources of Vancouver Island

Optimism and confidence in the business stability of Vancouver Island is expressed by Clarence A. Bogert, of Toronto, general manager of the Dominion bank, who is making a short stay in the city on an inspection of the branches of the bank in the West. Mr. Bogert, who arrived yesterday, was in conference with the local manager here to-day, and stated subsequently to a Times man that he was well satisfied with the business developing for the Victoria branch, and it would be the policy of the bank to establish branches in other parts of the island, as it developed. He was confident the city and district would show great development, but it did seem that until recently the chartered banks had not taken that interest in the island, which its natural resources warranted. Money, however, was coming in to exploit the untouched assets of the province and island. He thought probably the reason why more manufacturers did not locate here was due to the high wages and cost of living on the Pacific slope, although a market was rapidly growing for manufacturers on this coast.

"There is one thing," he said, "I have observed on this visit, and that is that speculation is less noticeable on this occasion than on previous visits to the West. Land values are reaching a natural level. I think money may continue tight this winter owing to the amount required to handle the crop, which will be a record one, but you will get the benefit of it next year, in money being invested and spent on the coast. The banks are increasing their capital to cope with existing conditions of expansion in the Dominion."

Mr. Bogert said the magnificent climate of Victoria could not fail to attract many eastern visitors, and some would doubtless become residents.

CONSTRUCTION TO BE STARTED AT LILLOOET

Patrick Welch is Beginning Work—Differences Regarding Route of Road

Patrick Welch, who has been awarded the contract for the construction of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, has made his headquarters at Lillooet and is starting work on a section of the road from that point west.

Owing to the differences between the company and the Howe Sound and Northern and West Vancouver municipalities Mr. Welch is not starting construction where was originally contemplated and as the company could not hold up operations on the whole line pending the adjustment of the difficulties referred to work will begin at Lillooet. Mr. Welch has retired from the board of the Pacific Great Eastern when he secured the contract and the conditions are that he must provide the completed line ready for the operation of rolling stock.

Hon. Thos. Taylor, minister of railways, yesterday received a deputation from West Vancouver to discuss the route of the line through the municipality. The railway company agreed to present an estimate of the land damages involved if their route is allowed and the reeve of West Vancouver promised to present a similar statement with regard to the route recommended by the municipality.

RAILWAY WORK IN SOUTHERN ALBERTA

Canadian Northern Gives Assurances That Construction Will Be Rushed

Winnipeg, Sept. 27.—Provincial Treasurer Malcolm MacKenzie, of Alberta, is satisfied with the result of negotiations he has had here with officials of the Canadian Northern railway, looking to extensions in Southern Alberta. General Manager McLeod has assured him that the company is now ready to push construction of the line from Calgary to MacLeod and Pincher Creek, the entire contract having been let to the Northern Construction Company. Work would be rushed this fall, and the line would take care of next year's crop. Thirty-five miles between MacLeod and Pincher Creek is already graded, and the remainder would be pushed south from Calgary.

Hon. Mr. MacKenzie anticipates the usual congestion in moving the crop in those districts without railway competition, and the policy of his government is the construction of competing lines.

ALTA VISTA

THE PIERCY ESTATE

Victoria has many charming spots within a radius of seven miles, from which to choose a home, but we venture to say that few, if any, offer the attractions of Alta Vista. Situate on a sloping hill, overlooking Elk Lake, it immediately appeals to those seeking one of nature's beauty spots on which to build a home. The soil is rich, there are grand old trees, through which the ozone from the Pacific is wafted. This is certainly a choice residential district. The lots are large, 1, 2, 3 and 5 acres at prices ranging from

ANNUAL MEETING OF LOCAL CRICKET CLUB

New Captain and Secretary Elected—Secretary's Report Highly Favorable

At the annual meeting of the Victoria Cricket Club last evening in the Balmoral hotel the captain for the next cricket season chosen was that sterling player, Rev. W. H. Collison; F. H. Gillespie is the new vice-captain; Fred Reeves was elected secretary in the place of Crawford Coates, and F. D. Morrison is the new treasurer.

In presenting his report for last year, Crawford Coates, the retiring secretary opened by stating that he was glad to be able to say that the meetings of the executive of the club had always been well attended, and no club could wish for a more thorough, conscientious hard working committee than they had shown themselves to be.

He went on to report what had been done during the year, and stated that owing to the absence of A. Wheeler, Jr., who had the score book with him, it was impossible to give a concise and exact account of the performances of the club during the year. Tournament figures, however, were available, and he thought the result of the tourney a remarkable testimony to the reserve forces of the club, when with men absent, and incapacitated through illness, they had yet been able to meet the highest honor of the cricket year.

He opined that some sort of a memorial of the mighty finish against the university masters should be presented to F. Gallier and J. W. D. York, the two who had made the great last wicket-stand on that occasion, thus making it possible for the team to win the game, and finally, the tournament. The team batting average per man, he reported, was 33.88, the nearest competitor, Vancouver, possessing an average of only 15.41. Twelve of the seventeen men who played had an average of over ten. A. F. R. Martin headed the list with an average of 75.75 for four completed innings.

The secretary stated that the treasurer regretted the absence of both himself and his report, but he was led to believe that the club was in a better financial standing than ever. The club house and grounds had been substantially improved, and Coppinger, the professional, had performed his duties to the satisfaction of all.

He had to deplore the decrease in new members, and also in the number of associate members. The attendance at the ground also had been very unfavorable.

Her eyes were wild, her hair was in disorder, her face was flushed, her hands were clenched. She was a deeply injured and desperate woman. "Oh, cruel one!" she cried in anguished tones, "I have borne with you too long; you have injured, you have tortured me, and yet I could not bear to give you up. When first we met, how your case and polish attracted me; when you became my own, how my friends envied me. But your understanding is too small for my large soul; you have ruined my standing in society. If we had never met I might have walked in peace. Be now begone! We part forever!"

There was a moment's convulsive breathing, a gritting of teeth and a sharp sigh. It was all over, by a supreme effort, she had pulled off her now shoes.

greeted him effusively, kissing his companions, who were smilingly on. After a few preliminaries, the captain ventured to his naval friend: "I wonder when the Duke will arrive; we've been waiting for him some time."

The naval man lifted his eyebrows in astonishment. "The Duke is here," he answered. "He and his secretary were on my boat."

For a moment the P. & O. man looked as if he wanted his ship's deck to open and swallow him, but the Duke of Connaught, coming on deck, soon put the man—he was to travel with at his ease in his own genial way.

The Duke's unostentatious entry was responsible for yet another mistake. The chief steward was accosted by a gentleman who enquired when dinner would be served, adding he was very hungry.

"We'll be later than usual this evening, sir," said the steward, "for the Duke of Connaught is behind time in coming aboard and we've been ordered not to serve dinner until he is quite ready."

"Serve it right away, then," said the gentleman, "because I'm quite ready."

And the steward realized that he was talking to the royal passenger.

The Confused Subaltern.

A strict disciplinarian and a diligent officer, the Duke of Connaught has always commanded the respect of his soldiers, while his good nature and sense of humor have not failed to win their affection. Only a commander with these human qualities could be told this anecdote for which his royal highness is the authority.

A young subaltern putting a company of infantry through their drill managed to get them into a terrible muddle. The duke, who was watching the effort, called the subaltern to him and asked, "Have you any idea what your men are supposed to be doing?" The boy saluted and replied, with a confident smile, "Not the slightest, sir, have you?"

There is also the story that illustrates both his humor and one of the difficulties of his position. It is related that at a reception at the Horse Guards the duke asked an officer who had been presented what he wanted. "Nothing, thank you," was the modest reply. "My dear sir," exclaimed his royal highness, shaking the astonished officer vigorously by the hand. "I am really glad to meet you. It is a long time since I met an army officer who wanted nothing."

Wonderful Memory.

The long and unflattering attention to detail which has been such a prominent characteristic with the duke has endowed him with a mind of remarkable clearness. Once during the manoeuvres on Salisbury Plain, the correspondent of a London newspaper had been to the duke getting some particulars of the disposition of the northern army, of which his royal highness was in command. "Well," said the newspaper man afterwards, "they can say what they like about people getting the credit for the suggestions of others, but look here," pointing to some voluminous notes, "this is what the duke has just given off to me from his own head without a scrap of paper, as I'm a sober man, or a word from a living soul." And he exhibited a list showing the precise dispositions of every fraction of the duke's extended command.

during the hostilities which had just ceased for the day.

A Real Democrat.

Evidence of his royal highness' democratic spirit were noticed by his fellow-passengers on the trip across the Atlantic. He dined in the public saloon and social-naturally posed for amateur kodak friends who were eager for snapshots of him. A story told of him many years ago when he was quite a young officer shows that this democratic spirit has long been with him. The duke was marching one day toward Aldershot with his battalion of the Rifle Brigade. The general in command of the district sent down a horse to meet him in order that his royal highness might ride to camp, as the march had been a long and tiring one. His royal highness, however, at once declined to avail himself of the tempting but irregular offer, saying that as he was a company officer, it was his duty to march into camp with his men.

H.R.H. Duchess of Connaught. Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Connaught was Princess Louise Margaret, daughter of Frederick Charles of Prussia, the great Red Prince of the Franco-German war of 1870. He it was who surrounded Marshal Bazaine with 200,000 men at Metz and induced his surrender, thus practically paralyzing French resistance and striking a blow from which France never could recover.

The Duchess was born on July 25, 1860. The marriage took place on 13th March, 1879, and the three children are Duchess of Shantou, born January 15, 1882, and married June 15, 1895, to Gustavus Adolfus of Sweden; Prince Arthur Frederick Patrick Albert, born January 13, 1883; and Princess Victoria Patricia Helena Elizabeth, who was born March 17, 1886, and who has come to visit Victoria with her parents.

The Duchess is said to be one of the shyest women in the world, and her daughter, Princess Patricia, has told how, on one of their foreign tours, she almost had to push her mother into the room for the receptions. Her recent illness prevents her taking part in many of the public ceremonies in connection with the visit, but her daughter, the Princess Patricia, will be, as the saying is, "There with the bells."

Princess Patricia.

There is no shyness about Princess Patricia. A more charming girl it would be hard to find anywhere. She is the lucky possessor of a sunny disposition and always becomes immensely popular wherever she goes. She is fond of all outdoor amusements, rides well, and plays a first class game of golf. She is quite a clever water color artist and, of course, a fine linguist. A rare quality said to be possessed by this interesting princess is that called "odde force"—a power which tells its owner when he or she is near water or metals, but it is not considered at all probable that she will consent to exercise this force on behalf of any of the prospectors of the Yukon. Her hobby is collecting uncut and semi-precious stones, of which she has quite a large number of considerable value. She is quite "un-princessy" in ways and looks. She has gone about pretty much where she chose—in fact, King Edward thought she ought to have a lady-in-waiting of her own on account of her independence, and her taste for going about incognito on the tops of omnibuses. She has travelled nearly all over the world, and being quick to imbibe new ideas, is unusually broad-minded.

As Caricaturist.

The whole Connaught family are without exception confirmed globe-trotters; and as they are also first-rate shots, their latest trip has taken them to Central Africa in pursuit of big game. When at Bagshot, the Duke, like the late King at Sandringham, leads the life of an English country gentleman, raising stock, and taking the warmest interest in his beautiful gardens, many of the beds in which he has himself laid out. His Royal Highness is particularly proud of one of the conservatories. It cost $15,000 to build, and represents a great expense. It is a scene, with at one end, a staircase cavern, along the floor of which flows a little stream, beneath which are electric lamps so that at night numerous little pools in the dark recesses appear to shine with liquid fire. It is in one of the private rooms at Bagshot, by the way, that one of Princess Patricia's most amusing caricatures is displayed. It represents the Duke, in his under uniform as a field marshal, his hair on end, his face red, and his whole body fairly bristling with rage. Underneath is written, "Where is my horse?" And those who know the Duke's unfailing mildness are invariably tickled by his daughter's little joke against him. Yet another of the Princess's caricatures "takes off" her cousin, King George V., as an admiral. It hangs in the drawing-room at Frogmore, and invariably causes a smile.

MUST BE ON ALERT.

Unionist Member Believes Japanese Menace Will Become Real.

Toronto, Sept. 27.—Lord Stanhope, a Unionist member of the British House of Lords, interviewed here yesterday, expressed the opinion that the people of British Columbia should be on the alert against Japanese invasion. He did not think it would occur for a few years, but he pointed out that already Japan was almost the master of the Pacific Ocean, and that they were looking for another place of settlement. He said that British Columbia offered the ideal place for them, as the Rocky Mountains made a natural barrier. This is the first time in four years that he has visited Canada. He complimented the people on their imperial sentiment, and said that the country had progressed rapidly, especially in the west.

FIRE CHIEF DAVIS RETURNS FROM VISIT

Mission of Education to Collect Fire Fighting Ideas Along Modern Lines

Fire Chief Davis returned this afternoon with members of his family from Seattle, having completed an interesting and instructive visit to a number of Western cities. He attended two conventions, that of the Pacific Coast Fire Chiefs at Los Angeles, at which he was the retiring president, and the international gathering at Denver of American Fire Chiefs.

Since then he has visited several cities to see fire fighting apparatus, particularly examining into the details of modern fire boats in view of the scheme, which received only a measure of support when submitted to the council, to provide such a protection for the waterfront. The proposal of Chief Davis was so high, including wages and maintenance, that the council felt they could not put a by-law to the public asking for so large an amount with any chance of passage, and therefore the chief set himself to collect information on a cheaper scheme. Some designs which have been tested at Oakland and elsewhere promise to make it possible to carry through a much more economical proposition, and accordingly Chief Davis desired to see practical tests made with a view to a report. He has travelled over a large territory, including parts of the states of Washington, Oregon, California, Colorado and Montana.

A full report will be presented to the fire wardens on the result of his visit at an early date.

"IN OLD KENTUCKY."

Old-Style Melodrama at the Victoria Theatre Last Evening.

It was quite a refreshing change to be waffled back once more to the old melodrama days when the prime object of the playwright seemed to be to provide as many sensations as possible during the few short hours between the first rise and the last drop of the curtain. In this respect, if in none others, "Old Kentucky," played last evening at the Victoria theatre, lived up to the traditions of its kind in the fullest degree.

There was no lack of excitement or variety the whole of the evening, while an efficient company endeavored to prove to a very appreciative audience that "true hearts are more than coronets, and simple faith than Norman blood." The players had their work cut out to cover up the glaring faults of the dramatist (imagine a play beginning with two long soliloquies) and it must be said that they succeeded admirably. The bit of the evening was George de Vere in the role of the "darkey Neb." His soft Kentucky drawl, with the broad vowels and smooth slurring of the consonants was worth going a long way to hear. One could almost imagine that he had actually been in the service of the old Kentucky family "befo' de war."

The story is a very simple one of the very obvious sort. The eternal triangle is there, of course—two men and the girl. Frank Layson, rather inaudibly played by Andrew Rogers, was the rival of Joe Lorey, the young moonshiner, whose illicit still was "hid in a cave guarded by a spreading oak."

The lady, naturally, was a sweet daughter of Old Kentucky in the person of Madge Brierly, the flower of the mountain, while a sufficiently haughty "aristo" from the Blue Grass was played by Miss Gertrude Graham.

The role of the conventional villain fell to Walter Fredericks, who managed to keep up quite a portentous scowl right through the performance, and stroked his jutting beard in the old, old way. His methods of carrying out his villainy, one must admit, were rather crude. Blowing up an unconscious man with a huge stick of dynamite, and setting fire to a stable in broad daylight were examples of his subtle style of getting revenge. On the whole, he probably deserved the red grave he reached.

Colonel Sandusky Doolittle shared the honors of the evening with "darkey Neb," and his twenty-year courtship, with "Miss Althea" reached a happy climax towards the end of the play.

The Pickaninny band was a great favorite with the gallery, and were recalled time and time again. Their play in the street of Lexington, Ky., was very realistic and amusing, but it was their rendering of "Dixie land," which quite brought down the house.

The horse race in the last act, which saved the hero from ruin, was not a success. To see horses flash past the winning post at the rate of one mile per hour is scarcely an inspiring sight. The play ended on the "live happy ever after" style with the villain sweetening in his gore, and the hero wearing the seraphic expression of all stage heroes as the curtain falls.

HOW TO DESTROY THE DANDRUFF GERM

BY A SPECIALIST.

That the dandruff germ is responsible for nearly all the diseases to which the scalp is heir, as well as for baldness and premature gray hair, is a well known fact, but when we realize that it is also the indirect cause of catarrh and consumption, we appreciate the importance of any agent that will destroy its power. We are therefore, particularly pleased to give the prescription which an eminent scientist states he has found, after repeated tests, to completely destroy the dandruff germ in from one to three applications. It will also almost immediately stop itching and has in numerous cases produced a new hair-growth after years of baldness. This prescription can be made up at home, or any druggist will put it up for you: 6 ounces Bay Rum, 2 ounces Lavender Compound, one-half ounce Mentha Crystallina. Mix thoroughly, and after standing half an hour it is ready for use. Apply night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with the finger-tips. If you wash it off, add half a tea-spoonful of To-Kalon Perfume, which unites perfectly with the other ingredients. While this preparation is not a dye, it is unequalled for restoring gray hair to its original color.

CAUTION: Do not apply where hair is not desired and be sure to avoid tonics containing poisonous wood alcohol.

Statistics of the libraries of Japan show that the chief demand is for books dealing with mathematics, medicine and science. The works most rarely in request are those treating on religion.

IDEAS OF A PLAIN MAN BY DR. FRANK CRANE

Certainty, positivity, egotistic self-confidence, all feeling in fact that arises from the consciousness of exact knowledge, is characteristic of inexperience.

Youth knows; age is doubtful. Positivity comes from knowledge, and knowledge is what inexperience has learned; and what wisdom feels most keenly is its own provisoriness, the deep uncertainty of all human conclusions.

The great minds in science to-day are marked by their modesty. M. Henri Poincare, one of the foremost French scientists, died shortly before these lines were written. He was a good example of the right spirit in science.

Let us not, he said, in substance, ask of science what it cannot give, and let us guard against fancying it is "the whole of man." For the half-savant knowledge is a principle of pride; it engenders arrogance and pendency. What a true savant knows best is the limitations of his knowledge; and for him science is the school of modesty.

Another striking saying of Poincare is: "Science has had some marvellous applications to practical uses, but science that is pursued only with a view to being applied is not science; it is no more than cookery."

David Belasco's wizardry in stage production is of the same character as the mosaic worker's witchcraft—a wealth of patient effort. Mr. Belasco will produce one of his newest and most successful plays at the Victoria theatre Monday night, September 30, and the simple announcement—entirely in the public mind the belief that "The Woman" will be well worth seeing, although it may be entirely ignorant of the theme of the play, of its locale and of the players who have been chosen to interpret the playwright's and the producer's ideas. This confidence in a Belasco production is not the subtle psychology of suggested success emanating from the "hypnotizing" Belasco brain. It is born largely of experience, the experience which has taught us that Mr. Belasco has not allowed that seductive siren—theatrical prosperity—to lure him from his elementary principles of elaborate attention to detail.

A tourist while travelling through Arizona noticed the dry, dusty appearance of the country. "Doesn't it ever rain round here?" he asked of one of the natives. "Rain!" The native smiled. "Why, say, partner, there's bullfrogs in this yere town over five years old that hasn't learned to swim yet."

On hearing of the death of her uncle at St. Mary Gray, Kent, Rose Gregory exclaimed: "Uncle's gone, and I am going, too," and immediately dropped dead.

"The Awakening of Helena Richie."

"The Awakening of Helena Richie," in which Roselle Knott is starring, supported by Henry Hall, late star of "The Man From Home," will be seen at the Victoria theatre on Saturday, and is now in its third year of success, and playing to exceptionally fine business everywhere. There is a romantic blend of comedy and sentiment in "The Awakening of Helena Richie," depicting life in a quaint Pennsylvania village in the picturesque period of the early '60s. Helena Richie is a woman who has suffered great injustice and has grown frivolous and careless. It is not overwhelming love for a little adopted boy that awakens her. Miss Knott has gained her greatest artistic success in this fascinating play.

"The Woman."

David Belasco's wizardry in stage production is of the same character as the mosaic worker's witchcraft—a wealth of patient effort. Mr. Belasco will produce one of his newest and most successful plays at the Victoria theatre Monday night, September 30, and the simple announcement—entirely in the public mind the belief that "The Woman" will be well worth seeing, although it may be entirely ignorant of the theme of the play, of its locale and of the players who have been chosen to interpret the playwright's and the producer's ideas. RECORDS BROKEN AT THE FAIR YESTERDAY whom there were very few figures, and those only at six and a half furlongs. The horse came out ready and fit, and was never caught. Desmond went to the tape suffering from sore feet, but was entered, at the request of the judges and ran a better race than his owner expected of him. The distance for Whidden was too short, as all his good races have been at more than a mile. The Ballif's Daughter liked the distance, and should have beaten Buri under a decent commencement ride, but Grand took her trailing and in a late run could only make up part of the ground he lost with the anchor out. While he beat Desmond a nose, Buri had two lengths in front between them. Don Enrique scored as usual, and Acotin, which ran a very fast mile during the summer, was in fourth position when the field finished.

Those who were looking for a bunch found one on the programme yesterday when number one came in first in three consecutive races. Those who found it and pinned their faith to Jonathan to continue the sequence were sadly disappointed. They should have changed to the bottom horse instead of the top because in the next race the order was reversed. However, it happens that way at times.

Pickens rode in six races yesterday, and was in the money on each occasion. He piloted two horses first past the judges, and brought in two seconds and two thirds.

Buri, while always having to be considered a contender in a mile race, can be considered the surprise of yesterday afternoon, and the opinion gains support from the public betting as Buri paid the highest dividend of $15.40. Meada paid $10 straight, McAllister $13.60, and Dookout, for place, $10.40.

THE POULTRY.

In former years many fine displays of poultry have been assembled at the fair, but chicken-raisers firmly believe that this year's exhibit is greatly superior to any shown in the past. There are more birds in the show this year and the judges have commented very favorably upon the showing. The display of every kind of poultry, pigeons and bantams is very complete, showing the strides made by the poultrymen since the last show.

E. Greenwood was the largest winner, securing 45 prizes. He took most of the ribbons with his single comb and rose comb Black Minorcas, single and rose comb Rhode Island Reds, Buff Orpingtons and Buff Cochins bantams. Another large exhibitor in the show is the Frandeg Poultry Farm, of Cobble Hill. They swept the prizes in the White and Brown Leghorn classes and also took several places in Rhode Island Reds.

As usual, W. O. Carter had little difficulty in cleaning up the prizes with his fine exhibit of Partridge Wyandottes. Wm. Pye had an exhibit of White and Silver-Laced Wyandottes, which took everything in their class. Jas. Wood, who specializes in Buff Orpingtons, carried off the leading prize with his fine Buffs. W. H. B. Mead and Blackstock Bros. divided honors in the Black Orpingtons. Blackstocks also have a fine display of Barred and Buff Plymouth Rocks.

The bantams are proving a great attraction and the display of siskies by H. Calvert is very fine.

PHOTOGRAPHY.

Several groups of photography filled in what would otherwise have been long gaps on the wall with familiar faces which the visitors seemed to take considerable delight in discovering. In the professional portrait group W. Gibson, photographer, took 1st prize, and in the amateur portrait group Mr. Benedict Bantley was awarded 1st for a series of very fetching studies of his own and other children with inviting titles, such as "The Little Scamp," "Song Without Words," "A Good Joke," and "Sure, Mike." J. T. Bond made two very fascinating studies from nature, one showing a basket of tiny chicks, the other some broken shells and their late occupants blinking in the light.

TEA ROOMS BUSY.

In every department of the fair yesterday a huge crowd was visible at one time or another, and at five o'clock the Daughters of Pitty had experienced a greater amount of business than during any day in previous fairs, for nearly two hours a big crowd pressing at the doors waiting for an opportunity to get tea. The same experience was the lot of the ladies at the W. C. T. U. tent, who for some time had many more visitors than they could seat at once. The Florence Nightingale chapter of the Daughters of Empire, who are selling candies on the balcony of the Woman's building, had sold out all their sweets shortly after five o'clock, and will be grateful if donors will send their contributions to Clay's confectionery store before 11 o'clock to-morrow morning, in order that these may be delivered with any gifts of cakes, tea, etc., being sent to the Daughters of Pitty during the day.

PICTURE GALLERY.

The picture gallery was also crowded during the afternoon and great interest was shown in the section devoted to children's work, three pictures in which attracted particular notice. These were a water color study of still life (in the class for artists under sixteen years of age) by Margaret Fox, showing two old books with ragged backs and frayed leaves—a very realistic and artistically portrayed group which reflects most creditably on the ability of the artist; and two drawings, the first of which, by Marjorie Lort, was a crayon picture of two boats with sails set, and bright moonlight breaking from a cloudy sky; the second showing, in pencil sketch, the ill-fated S. S. Titanic. The last two came in the same class, and received 1st and 2nd prize respectively, while no one would gainsay the real merits of all three pictures.

In the landscape and marine (professional) class, Mrs. Dulmage took 1st prize with a view of a road disappearing in perspective over a heath. In the life study portrait a piece of very fine and very realistic work was shown in Mrs. D. R. Harris's oil painting of a teamster boy, whose merry brown face and tumbled hair in conjunction with overall and open collar was the centre of an admiring group during the greater part of yesterday. Another admired work was that of Miss Winifred Winterburn, "Story of an empty sleeve," showing in pen and ink sketch, a little boy listening open-eyed to the veteran's tale of how he lost his arm.

SCHOOL CHILDREN'S WORK.

Not only in pictures were the school children eminently successful, however, and in the exhibit of cooking from the various schools the girls seem to have excelled themselves, not only in the making of cakes, scones, and cookies, but in the more serious problems of bread-making and bottling of fruits. While there were several exhibits by individual school girls, the greater number were from Victoria West, South Park, George Jay, and Lampson street schools. Victoria

West school won the 1st prize for best white bread, South Park winning the 2nd, while in the brown bread class George Jay school won both prizes. In bread rolls, scones, and Boston brown bread Victoria West distinguished herself once more, and the only beef-steak pie shown was also from this school. The competition in gingerbread was so keen that one can but conclude that this class is a favorite of schoolgirls holds undiminished popularity. In the jellies and fruit classes the number of entrants was not so many, Lampson street school being awarded 1st prize for the best assortment of jelly and South Park school 2nd, while Victoria West once more proved her leading position by taking 1st for pickles, with South Park as a close 2nd.

In the children's exhibits great disappointment is being felt that the exhibits sent some time ago to the Toronto fair, and which have been so successful there, have not arrived back in Victoria in time for the fair here, which has made the exhibit in the children's department of fancy work very small compared with what it would otherwise have been.

DISTURBANCE IN WESTHOLME GRILL

CALGARY RANCHER AND
OTHERS PAID FINES

Gambling House Raided—
Cruel Treatment of Horses
Before Magistrate

Trouble in the Westholme grill early this morning resulted in the intervention of the police at the request of the grill proprietor, and the appearance of three respectable appearing young men in the police court this morning. The men were charged with destroying two table cloths and two of them pleaded guilty.

The men are H. R. A. West, G. M. Gray and A. T. Maid. The two latter pleaded guilty, but West denied having destroyed the table linen and claimed that he left the Empress hotel sober after meeting some friends there and went to the Westholme to meet his friend, Gray, with whom he rooms. When the waiter intervened the men refused to leave the grill and wanted to be served again, but the proprietor forbade the waiters to serve them. Three police officers were called to take the men out, and they conducted them upstairs.

There was a second charge against West of having assaulted Detective Fry, whom he did not know as the best boxer on the city force. The detective giving evidence this morning, said that while talking to the men upstairs and advising them to be quiet, West suddenly turned and struck the officer on the eye and again on the back of the head. He was then secured.

West pleaded guilty on the second charge and said he was excited and angry at being arrested without his hat, when he had done nothing in the grill that the waiters could take offence at. He denied he had torn the table cloth. He was fined $20 for the assault and the three were each fined $20 and $1 damage for the destruction of the linen.

The men are visitors for the fair and the races. West said he was a Calgary rancher and had come here for the races. A raid last night on a Chinese lottery resulted in seven men who were busy marking tickets being arrested, and presented in court this morning. They were each fined $20 on pleading guilty but the alleged keeper of the house, a Chinese named Tong, pleaded not guilty and was remanded. The men who were fined are H. Walls, A. Constance, J. Allen, W. Thompson, E. Butterworth, J. Mahoney and E. Morris.

Three cases of cruelty using horses were before the court at the instance of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Mrs. G. A. Bret was charged and brought a veterinary to testify as to the condition of the animal which the prosecution held to be unfit for work. Against his evidence was that of two other veterinary surgeons, who held the animal should not be used, one recommending that it be shot. Magistrate Jay remanded the case until to-morrow for decision. A man named Lawson, who was arrested for beating a horse, was remanded for the attendance of a witness, and the third, a Hindu named Bakara, was fined $15. He beat his horse with a whip so severely that blood was drawn.

THE FALL FAIR.

To the Editor: Amongst the many striking exhibits at this year's fair may be noticed some sections of the splendid timber grown on the island. Might I be allowed to suggest that these specimens of timber be secured as a part of the permanent exhibit with a view to forming a forestry annex. This would serve a very useful educational and advertising purpose. If to this could be added a properly constructed aquarium showing the food fish of our waters in a manner similar to the splendid display made at the Seattle fair we should be building up an attraction of great educational and advertising value. The forestry buildings of Seattle and Portland are models for this purpose and the undertaking should receive Dominion, Provincial and Municipal support.

GARBAGE STATION.

To the Editor:—I wonder if the parents of the children who attend the Sir James Douglas school know that the city council is building a garbage station just 50 feet from the playground, and the boys play around it every day. Just imagine the city health officer, Dr. G. A. B. Hall, approving of such a thing, and not merely approving but stubbornly contending, that loading and unloading of all sorts of decaying refuse so near the school will not hurt at all. Do the parents know that there may be an epidemic of diphtheria or some other deadly disease among the children? Even if there was no such danger, what is the use of building a beautiful and expensive school in a choice locality and then permitting a garbage station to be built next door? What is our school board about to allow it? Isn't it about time the parents took a hand in the matter?

CURIOUS WEDDING RING.

The old-fashioned marriage at Gretna Green and the doubts of the parties as to its legality without a ring reminds us that even in the great days of Gretna they were careful about the ring. An old account of a runaway wedding tells that the first inquiry of the "priest" was for the ring. None was forthcoming, but the priest with great presence of mind borrowed the groom's tobacco box and married the couple with a twisted ring of tobacco, foreseeing perhaps that the ceremony would end in smoke.

The speed of an otter under water is amazing. Fish have no chance against them. In some places in India otters are kept by the natives to fish for them. They are tied up to stakes like dogs when not working, wear plaited straw collars, and seem happy.

"SYRUP OF FIGS" FOR INDIGESTION, BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION

Better than castor oil, calomel or cathartics to cleanse your stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels. Harmless Laxative for men, women and children.

Primitive folks did not need laxatives. They lived outdoors, ate plenty of fruit, and all of their food was coarse. We modern people are different. We exercise too little, eat little fruit, and our food is too fine—too rich. We simply can't have our ten yards of bowels clogged up, liver choked with sour bile and stomach full of foul effete matter and feel well. It means that the food and waste retained in the stomach and thirty feet of bowels ferment, decay, and those poisons are sucked into the blood through the very ducts intended to suck in the nutriment. Then we have sick headache, become dull, bilious, tongue coated, nervous, meals don't digest, and we feel miserable all over. So we must make our choice. We must live like primitive folks, else we must take artificial means to move the excess and waste matter on and out of the system. The safest, most harmless and effective stomach, liver and bowel cleanser and regulator for men, women and children—is delicious Syrup of Figs, which doesn't irritate, gripe or weaken. Its effect is the effect of fruits. It is composed entirely of luscious figs, sennas and other natural ingredients. It is a delicious food. Syrup of Figs can be constantly used without harm. Ask your druggist for "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," and see on the label that it is prepared by The California Fig Syrup Company. This is the only genuine—the old reliable. Refuse, with contempt, the so-called Fig Syrup imitations sometimes offered to deceive you.

Few Changes in Prices in General List in New York Market

(By Courtesy F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
New York, Sept. 27.—Price changes on the whole were not material. A heavy volume of trading in steel, advancing prices to 79 for the common stock, served to create the impression that the interests which have been most conspicuous on the buying side were disposed to force a higher range of prices even in the face of distinct hardening in the money market, but as a result of the day's trading it was generally conceded that distribution on a goodly scale was accomplished and that a pronounced general rise for the time being is not likely.

London was not a factor. The feeling is that the banking element disapproved pronounced rising tendencies.

Financial NewsHEAVY VOLUME OF TRADING IN STEEL

Few Changes in Prices in General List in New York Market

(By Courtesy F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
New York, Sept. 27.—Price changes on the whole were not material. A heavy volume of trading in steel, advancing prices to 79 for the common stock, served to create the impression that the interests which have been most conspicuous on the buying side were disposed to force a higher range of prices even in the face of distinct hardening in the money market, but as a result of the day's trading it was generally conceded that distribution on a goodly scale was accomplished and that a pronounced general rise for the time being is not likely.

London was not a factor. The feeling is that the banking element disapproved pronounced rising tendencies.

Holiday on Stock Exchange To-morrow—Granby Smelter as Investment

Victoria, Sept. 27.—There were no sales and few changes in prices on the local stock exchange to-day, and the market is closed till Monday. Inquiries are being made as to the investment possibilities of the good copper issues. Granby has sold above its par value at $100. With an assured future it is said to be earning approximately $130,000 monthly, which is at the rate of more than $10 per share annually. At the present earning capacity dividends are likely within the near future.

CHANCE DENIES CHARGES.

Replies to Statements by President Murphy Regarding Chicago Nationals.

New York, Sept. 27.—Frank Chance, manager of the Chicago Cubs, lying in a private hospital, still weak from the effects of an operation, makes an eloquent reply to-day to charges made by President Charles W. Murphy, that loose living and training methods had lost the Chicago Nationals the pennant for 1912.

"I believe the Cubs are the best baseball team in either league," said Chance. "Most of the players take a glass of beer after the game, and I consider this beneficial. No one of my men ever takes a drink in the morning or between games. I made a rule this year that none of my pitchers should smoke cigarettes. I think they have lived up to this rule."

"Murphy only thinks of the team when it is winning. The team plays harder when I am away than when I am with it. It wants to finish in second place and so do I, and I want to meet the White Sox in the post-season series. These charges of Murphy's will make it hard to accomplish either of these things. Of course, his statements reflect upon me personally, and I have been in the baseball game too long to allow Murphy or anyone else to insult me."

Chance will be back in Chicago in time to see his club play the series with the White Sox; if such series is arranged.

Chicago, Sept. 27.—"If any member of the Cubs does not like the clause in our contracts and expresses this opinion either privately or to papers, I will make it a point to trade him off."

With these words Charles W. Murphy, owner of the Chicago National League baseball team, reiterated his comment that his athletes must abstain from intoxicants and cigarettes, and go to bed early.

SUFFRAGETTE'S ULTIMATUM.

Miss Wylie Says Canadian Women Have Promised to Aid in Fight for Votes.

Quebec, Sept. 27.—"We have been promised by many Canadian women, that they are ready to join us in our fight for woman's suffrage. Besides, there are many English women ready to help us. We are of opinion that the people of Canada are too sensible to make it necessary for us to adopt the militant methods which were practically forced upon us by the treachery and extreme stupidity of the Asquith government. But we are resolved to gain our point, and we will continue the fight until it is won in Canada."

The above ultimatum was delivered by Miss Barbara Wylie, the pioneer of the English militant suffragettes, who arrived here on the Empress of Ireland to-day. She will remain in Montreal for Sunday and will do some educational work there. The women's cause will go on to Toronto, where it is expected the campaign will assume a more serious aspect, as she is likely to be accompanied by delegations of Toronto ladies when she interviews the premier. Miss Wylie expects to be well received by the premier and is now discouraged by the reception which Mr. Borden gave the suffragettes in England.

"He went as far as any politician could," she said. "At any rate he did not say that he would refuse to hear us. Anyway, that is far better than Premier Asquith."

TO PROTECT AMERICANS.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 27.—Navy department officials believe that the cruiser Cincinnati, of the Asiatic fleet, which has left for Foochow, has gone there in response to a call for protection of Americans. Admiral Nicholson gave no details of her movements. No orders were sent from Washington.

EXTENSION OF THE TELEPHONE SYSTEM

MORE EQUIPMENT IS BEING INSTALLED

In the Local Office—Capacity to Be Increased by 2,000 Telephones

The rapid increase in the demands for telephone service in this city during the last few months has called for additional equipment at the Victoria office, and to anticipate requirements which it is believed will become imperative during the coming winter, three additional sections of switchboard are now being installed. No sooner had the company become established in the new Victoria office last summer than it became apparent that additional accommodation on the board would be needed before long and no time was lost in making the necessary arrangements for ensuring the delivery at the earliest possible date of the three sections now being installed. It is expected that the work of erecting the new sections will be finished within sixty days. On the completion of the installation the capacity of the board will be increased by 2,000 telephones.

The aerial and underground work in the James Bay and Fairfield districts was practically completed by September 15. The company will shortly have expended over $100,000 in providing facilities for reaching the residential districts of the city. The rapidly increasing population of Victoria has resulted in wonderful development and growth of the suburban residential districts. Sections which little over a year ago were sparsely populated are now the site of hundreds of homes. This steady advance of population into the suburbs has called for unremitting attention to the problem of providing telephone facilities ahead of the certain demand. In estimating the requirements of the various residential districts, care has been taken to allow for a wide margin of growth over and above present needs, as all the suburbs give every promise of great development in the future.

Work in the Hillside and Fernwood districts is being vigorously pushed. In these sections a general reconstruction of existing plant is being carried out and a large amount of new plant is being added.

YEAR'S PROGRESS ON ROAD WORK

ACCOMPLISHMENTS ARE UP TO EXPECTATIONS

Favorable Reports Received by Public Works Department From Superintendents

Reports to the public works department from road superintendents and foremen throughout the province indicate that the season's operations on highways and bridges is being rapidly rounded off, the accomplishments of the year being quite up to expectations. The seasons work on the Nine Mile road near Prince Rupert has resulted in the establishment of a good thoroughfare to a point about a mile from the Harris mines trail; as the Harris property will ship considerable ore during the winter application has been made through William Manson, M. P. E. for an additional appropriation sufficient to provide for extending the road to a point where connection may be made with a road from the mine.

To make a long jump, from the Skeena to the Okanagan, the government road forces in the B. C. Valley have completed their season's activities on the new road north of the Bel-Can orchard, several miles of which have been graded and put in shape for automobile traffic. Work on the lake shore roads of the Okanagan is nearing completion, the final touches now being put on surfacing and the road as it stands being declared one of the finest highways in the interior.

In Coldstream municipality an agitation is to the fore for the diversion of the White Valley road at its junction with the Long Lake road and communications from the municipality in respect thereto are now receiving the attention of the minister of works. A movement initiated by the Edgewood Conservative Association is also obtaining headway in the Okanagan, having for its object the securing of a new wagon road from Fire Valley to Vernon. Another new road for which the government will be asked to make provision in framing next year's estimates is projected to extend from Celista to Squilax and from Notch Hill to Chase.

In the Boundary district, good progress is being made in extending the new Canadian Highway over the summit from Oro Denoro to Phoenix and Greenwood; the road is now completed as far as Fourth of July creek and its condition is highly commended by all who have had occasion to travel over it. The work on the Hope-Princeton section of the inter-provincial trunk railway is also proceeding rapidly from either end. From the mouth of Silver creek, where the new highway diverges from the Yale road, a broad thoroughfare fully thirty feet wide has been graded for a mile and a half and the surveyor's work is completed for three miles beyond; the work on the Silver Creek section is in charge of Fred Parnaby, who has under him sixty workers, the monthly payroll totalling $4,000. It is expected that active operations in this district can be carried forward until well into November.

Conditions are less favorable in the Skeena, and in consequence Foreman A. C. MacKay has been obliged to suspend operations for the season on the new wagon road at the head of the lake. In Lillooet, work has been begun on the new trail to Taylor Basin, which leaves the wagon road at Five Mile Creek and follows Taughton creek for the greater part of its length; this trail has a water grade all the way and the work of clearing and construction will be light.

During the past fortnight construction has begun of a substantial bridge in the Kaleden district, which will form the connecting link with the new road from Okanagan Falls. Construction proceeds apace on the Churn Creek bridge, which structure was last week the scene of a fatal accident. J. Foley, a laborer, being so seriously injured by an explosion of dynamite that he died while being conveyed to Clinton for surgical and hospital care.

WILL BE DEPORTED.

Vancouver, Sept. 27.—Admitting that they were guilty of violating the immigration act by illegally entering Canada, Thomas Yates, John Pappas and Andrew Margaltes were each fined $25 and costs yesterday by Magistrate South. The accused stated that they would pay the fine at once. They will be deported by Immigration Inspector Held. The men claimed they each paid $20 to a man who stated that he could smuggle them into Vancouver. They were conveyed as far as Point Roberts and then left to make their way as best they could.

MANY KILLED IN RIOTS.

Amoy, China, Sept. 27.—Violent riots in which many Chinese who had cut off their queues were killed, are reported from Amoy. In the interior of the province of Fu Kien.

Desmond Adrian Trevor Samson, 15, while practising at the nets at Preston Park cricket ground, Brighton, was killed by a cricket ball, which glanced up the bat.
